

But Who Are They?

(c) Chicago Daily News

London — The Spectator, an old and famous political-literary weekly, published last week what must be close to the ultimate in gossip column items.

It has everything — sex, show biz, politics, royalty and no end of hanky panky.

Everything, that is, except names. Here it is, as written by columnist Will Wasp:

"That well-known West End actor, whose even more well-known wife has gone off abroad with a well-known playwright, has been greatly disturbed by the tale now circulating around the town's salons that his own new love — a well-known lady of title — is also carrying on with a well-known MP (member of Parliament).

"The piquant trimming is that the latter affair was discovered by the queen herself, who came upon them in flagrante delicto in the back of an estate car (station wagon).

"Except that the pair are now off the royal guest list, I can find no evidence to support this outrageous story."

Arabs Give Guerrillas Role

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Arab leaders gave full recognition to Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization as the "sole legitimate representative of the Palestinian people" but left Jordan's King Hussein a voice in Palestinians' future.

The move Monday followed an apparent reconciliation between Hussein and PLO chief Yasir Arafat. Their conflict had threatened the Arab summit with failure.

The resolution adopted by consensus late Monday said the summit "reaffirms the rights of the Palestinian people to set up an independent national authority, under the leadership of the PLO as the sole legitimate representative of the Palestinian people on any Palestinian land that is liberated. Arab countries must support this authority when it is established in all fields and at all levels."

The Arab leaders did not specify who was to represent the West Bank Palestinians in negotiations with Israel but left it to Jordan, Egypt, Syria and the PLO "to establish a formula for organizing the relationship between them."

Israel has occupied the Jordanian West Bank since the 1967 Mideast war.

For the PLO, the umbrella organization for Palestinian guerrilla groups, the Arab action was the third major step in two weeks in its drive to achieve universal recognition as the sole spokesman for the Palestinian people.

The United Nations General Assembly has invited the PLO to take in its debates on the Palestinian issue, and French Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues met last week with Arafat in Beirut. Sauvagnargues said the U.N. action was "the right decision."

For Hussein, who had demanded a clear mandate to negotiate Israel's withdrawal from the West Bank, the summit decision was something less than a victory.

In withdrawing his objections to PLO endorsement earlier in the day, Hussein told the summit he "reserved" his position concerning future peace talks with Israel. Conference sources said Egypt's President Anwar Sadat made a similar statement.

Hussein had earlier told the Arab leaders he would refuse to attend a resumed Middle East peace conference in Geneva if he was obliged to submit to PLO authority over the West Bank area.

It was not immediately clear whether the summit agreement on the Palestinian resolution eliminated the Jordanian and Egyptian reservations.

However, the provision allowing for consultation among Jordan, Egypt, Syria and the PLO could provide a loophole for Hussein to negotiate with Israel on the PLO's behalf. Israel has maintained it will not negotiate with the PLO for withdrawal from the West Bank.

Sayed Nofal, deputy secretary general of the Arab League, told a midnight news conference that Hussein "expressed his complete solidarity with the Palestinian people in their struggle and the continuation of their action."

Arafat thanked Hussein for his "patriotic attitude," Nofal said.

Conference sources said the reservations by Hussein, Sadat and possibly other moderate Arab leaders may have dealt a death blow to the renewed Geneva peace talks despite the agreement of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in Moscow that the Geneva conference "should play a useful role in finding a settlement."

Earlier, Arab oil ministers discussed possible use of the oil weapon and how to unify strategy against threats from oil consuming nations.

In other oil developments:

—An agreement by the United States and other industrialized nations to share their oil in an emergency will take final shape in Brussels on Nov. 18, Etienne Davignon, the chairman of the group, said in Brussels.

—Financial difficulties in Europe and lack of confidence in Israel's financial structure have temporarily held up a $25 million search for oil in the Jewish state, the manager of the oil exploration firm, Yekutieli Federman, said in Tel Aviv.

—Predominantly Moslem Pakistan is also hurting. Figures released in Karachi said Pakistan's balance of payments deficit will be $400 million, some $60 million higher than last year, largely because of increased prices of imported oil.

4 Convicts Release Boy

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Four armed convicts Monday released the last of the four children they had held hostage since seizing a prison chapel.

The convicts, including a Palestinian hijacker, still held two women and 14 men, but a Justice Ministry spokesman described the release of the boy as a "hopeful" development.

The spokesman said 11-year-old Godfried Clercos had been allowed to leave the chapel. Three girl hostages, a man and a woman were released earlier in the siege, which began Saturday.

Dutch authorities have stipulated that all the women and children must be freed before they will start negotiations. The ministry spokesman said contacts between the convicts and the authorities were being conducted in a reasonable and calm manner.

Earlier the authorities let the Palestinian in the chapel, Adnan Ahmed Nuri, speak by radio with another Arab convict, Sami Houssin Tamimah, after Nuri threatened to kill some of the hostages.

Nuri and Tamimah, both 23, were jailed after hijacking a British Airways jetliner last March to Amsterdam, where they set it ablaze. Tamimah is being treated for the after effects of a hunger strike.

The spokesman said Tamimah, who regards himself as the senior of the pair, told Nuri "he didn't know if the Palestinian cause would best be served by the short of action Nuri had begun."

Tamimah "told his friend he understood his wish to fight and if need be to die for the Palestinian cause," the spokesman went on.

However, he added Tamimah "begged him (Nuri) not to go that far," but to negotiate with the authorities on the basis that both Palestinians should serve their Dutch prison sentences together "and afterwards help the Palestinian cause in a better and more useful way."

The spokesman indicated that Tamimah was caught in a conflict of loyalties between his friend and what he sees as his duty. There was no indication of Nuri's response.

As they talked, the Rev. Antonius de Bot, 59, one of the hostages, called security forces on field telephones installed Monday and said the hostages were holding up well to their ordeal.

But he said the boy, his mother and another woman were under severe psychological strain.

Premier Joop den Uyl called his government ministers to a special cabinet session to discuss government tactics. The meeting lasted six hours, but a spokesman said only part of the time was spent discussing the situation at the prison.

The death threat was the first against the hostages since Nuri, Dutchmen Jan Brouwer, 27, and Daan de Nie, 26; and Algerian Mohammed bin Koudache, 23, seized the suburban prison's chapel during a Mass.

Motorcyclist Hospitalized After Collision

Marlin G. Wisner, 21, of Firth, was listed in "good" condition at Lincoln General Hospital Monday after his motorcycle crashed into the rear of a stopped car.

Police said Wisner was southbound on 16th St. when his cycle struck a car driven by Nancy S. Jones, 21, of 1522 So. 23rd. Jones had stopped her car between R and T Sts. to

Council Broadens Rate Powers

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln city lawmakers gave themselves more authority over rates at Lincoln General Hospital Monday night by requiring the council to take action on any proposed rate changes within 30 days.

The ordinance, which the lawmakers billed as a compromise solution, also would allow the council to refer any rate changes to a rate review agency for recommendations.

Under the previous law, rates go into effect automatically unless the council takes action within 30 days to reject or modify those rates. The ordinance approved unanimously Monday night requires council action.

In Effect Anyway

However, in case a council does not act on a rate change within the 30-day time period, the rates will go into effect anyway.

The council members said the ordinance hammered out was a compromise with members of the Lincoln General Hospital Board, who opposed any change in the present rate adoption procedure.

Council members felt they compromised on the proposal since an original proposal would have required the council to seek a recommendation on any rate changes from the Nebraska Hospital Reimbursement Plan Rate Review Committee. The council dropped that requirement.

Council members favored having tighter control over the hospital, they said, so that the elected officials would be directly accountable for rate-setting at Lincoln General.

Change Granted
In other action the council unanimously granted a change of zone to Ed Copple, an officer of Westgate Bank, to allow the construction of a drive-in bank facility on the west side of 17th, north of South.

The zoning change from C Multiple to I Commercial was granted over the objections of the Near-South Neighborhood Association and several property owners living along Roselyn Terrace.

The association and residents contended the drive-in facility would generate additional traffic to the already congested 17th and South area and that a business use would be detrimental to the residential area.

The council also signaled its intent to tackle at least one part of the dog and cat dilemma next Monday.

The council pulled from its pending list one of three proposed pet control ordinances for possible disposition — the ordinance authorizing the police department to issue citations to dog owners for violations of the barking, leashing or licensing laws.

Left pigeon-holed were two other ordinances, one authorizing the issuance of citations to cat owners for certain violations and the other authorizing a $1 increase in licensing fees.

Committee Suggested
Councilman Dick Baker suggested that the council create a committee to look into the broader area of pet control. A meeting last week with the Humane Society, local veterinarians and others to discuss the problem developed into a "shouting match" Baker said.

Other council members agreed to discuss Baker's proposal next week.

Ed Aid Question To Be On Ballot

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Voters will have a chance to repeal, or keep, the controversial $156 million state aid to education law on Nov. 5.

The Nebraska Supreme Court Monday ruled the issue will appear on the referendum ballot, after hearing oral arguments in the case in the morning and discussing it through the afternoon.

The court dismissed a case brought by supporters of the law. The Nebraska State School Board Association, which filed the suit, argued that the referendum is contrary to the Nebraska Constitution.

The question voters must decide on Nov. 5 is:

Should the state rely on the property tax as heavily as it does to support primary and secondary schools?

Or, should the state place a greater share of the burden on the sales and income tax?

Presently, the state provides approximately 15% of the cost of primary and secondary schools through the sales and income tax. That comes to $55 million a year.

The new law, passed over Gov. J. James Exon's veto, requires that the state pay 50% of the cost of public schools.

The shift will mean lower school mill levies but higher sales and income taxes.

Opponents of the law circulated petitions to get the measure on the ballot. When they had more than the 25,000 signatures needed, supporters of the law went to court saying that allowing a vote of the people on the law would jeopardize public education.

L. Bruce Wright, an attorney for the law's supporters, said sending it to a vote of the people "will constitute the first milestone of the road of destruction of free public education in the state."

The law involves an appropriation, he said, and the constitution prohibits referendums on appropriations.

The court, in a unanimous decision, supported a Lancaster District Court ruling and held the law is not an appropriation within the meaning of the constitution.

"LB772 (the state aid law) does not appropriate or set apart from the public revenue a certain sum of money and is not a specific appropriation... but on the other hand (it) sets up a new scheme for local public school district taxation and financing."

"The referral of LB772 to a vote of the people will in no way jeopardize the state's continuous compliance with the constitutional requirement of providing free instruction in the common schools."

"It is clear that if the measure is defeated by a vote of the people free instruction will continue as provided by the pre-existing legislation and... the revenue-producing scheme under the previously existing law."

The court also said the constitutional ban on referendums on appropriations measures should not be construed to take away the people's right to pass judgment on new financing schemes.

Nixon To Have Surgery Today

Long Beach, Calif. (AP)—Former President Richard M. Nixon will undergo surgery Tuesday morning to arrest a worsening blood clot condition that threatens his life, his personal physician said Monday night.

Dr. John C. Lungren said through a hospital spokesman that the 61-year-old former president will be operated on at 7:30 a.m. CST.

Lungren said the decision to operate followed a venogram which confirmed the presence of a large clot in a major artery in Nixon's left thigh.

State Fears Track Abandonments Near

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

State officials fear the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) is gearing up to act on seven proposed abandonments of railroad branch lines in Nebraska.

The Nebraska Public Service Commission has received preliminary environmental impact studies which apparently clear the way for the abandonments.

The environmental studies, conducted by the ICC, concluded the pollution caused by the shift from rail to truck transportation along branch lines will not have a detrimental effect on air quality.

Bought Extra Time

Forces hoping to block branch line abandonments, including the commission, have used the environmental impact angle to at least buy extra time in their fight with the railroads.

One of the studies said: "The highway network is adequate to accommodate the diversion of traffic from rail to truck. The relatively light traffic handled over the line and the adjacent highway access demonstrate that the local environment will not be significantly affected."

"In view of (this), it is apparent that the abandonment action is consistent with local planning efforts."

A second study covering three proposed abandonments said: "Abandonment with diversion of traffic from rail service to motor carrier will produce an increase in air pollution and energy consumption; however, the effects will be minimal because of the low volumes of traffic presently experienced on the lines."

Jack Finnigan, commission attorney, said the studies indicate the ICC "is tooling up and getting ready to go" on the seven Nebraska cases and 333 cases from other states now pending.

The studies, he said, are an attempt by the ICC to get by without having to conduct full-fledged environmental impact statements.

Finnigan said the commission might possibly challenge the ICC and ask for the statements called for in the 1960 Environmental Protection Act.

"We don't agree and we're going to ask them to reconsider," Finnigan said.

Environment Experts Consulted

He said he has contacted environmental experts at the University of Nebraska and the State Department of Environmental Control in an effort to build the state's case that the abandonments will harm air quality.

Finnigan said it has been estimated that the capacity of one boxcar equals that of two semi-trailer trucks.

Six of the proposed abandonments are on the Chicago & North Western line: Wakefield-Crofton (40 miles), Emerson-Thurston (7 miles), Lyons-Tekamah (22 miles), Irvington-Bennington (10 miles), Wayne-Dakota City (40 miles) and Norfolk-Winner, S.D. (174 miles).

The seventh proposed abandonment is a 40-mile stretch on the Rock Island line between Fairbury and Rusk.

Under ICC rules, a line can be abandoned if it carries less than 34 boxcars per mile each year. Many of the lines proposed for abandonment in Nebraska carry as few as 10 boxcars per mile each year.

Many of the communities along the branch lines will be without rail service if the abandonments are approved by the ICC. Local businesses, such as lumber yards and grain elevators, have led in the fight against the abandonments. They fear the shift to truck transportation will cost them more and force relocations.

The railroads maintain the branch lines do not generate enough revenue to warrant keeping them. Other lines, they say, are in poor condition and are dangerous at high speeds.

Many of the lines have been embargoed, a kind of de facto abandonment.

Local businesses complain the railroads have kept traffic on certain lines deliberately low by not delivering boxcars when they are ordered. As a result, they have to use truck transportation.

Finnigan said the Winner-Norfolk line has gotten one train per month.

Roadbeds Wanted

Asked why they are fighting the abandonments when the lines are embargoed, Finnigan said, "We want the roadbeds left there. Maybe someday the federal government will take over the roadbeds and maintain them."

"If we allow the railroads to abandon them, there will be no branch lines to serve these communities if the federal government takes them over," he said.

The ICC, he said, is hesitant to force the railroads to maintain the branch lines, since the financial failure of the Penn Central Railroad a few years ago has been attributed in part to unprofitable branch lines.

Happy Owes Rocky $12,500

NEW YORK (AP) — Nelson Rockefeller reported on Monday that he loaned $507,656 to his family, friends and close associates during the past 17 years.

They still owe him $147,733, the multimillionaire disclosed, including $12,500 due from his wife Happy on a $15,000 loan he made her Oct. 1, 1973.

"Mrs. Rockefeller has her own income from a trust set up at the time of her marriage to the former governor and reported to total $39 million.

The new list was sent to the congressional committees which will hold confirmation hearings.

Covering letters to Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., of the Senate Committee on Rules and Administration and Chairman Peter W. Rodino, Jr., D-N.J., of the House Committee on the Judiciary said the new list supplemented but did not duplicate the earlier one.

High Morrow, Rockefeller's spokesman, said he doubted if the new list was very controversial in it," he said. "You got that with the first one."

Morrow referred to a list detailing loans and gifts of nearly $1 million to public officials who worked for him. It showed, among other sums, $625,000 to Dr. William Ronan, now chairman of the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, and $50,000 to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

A Gallup Poll, published in the current Newsweek magazine, showed that 45 per cent thought the loans and gifts were improper while 46 per cent — the same figure — approved them and 10 per cent were undecided.

The same Gallup Poll showed that only 44 per cent of Americans now want Rockefeller confirmed in the job. Thirty-eight per cent were completely opposed and the rest undecided.

An earlier Harris Poll showed approval of Rockefeller running at 55 per cent with 31 per cent opposed and the rest undecided.

AMA Dollars Flow To AMA-Plan Friends

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven Senate sponsors also have received donations, the Post said.

The most recent wave of donations to Mediredit sponsored by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., a Medicare sponsor who is opposed by Rep. William Roy, D-Kan., a physician long at odds with the AMA.

AMA also contributed $3,000 to Sen. Robert Packwood's campaign. The Oregon Republican was an early sponsor of Mediredit, but has since sponsored the administration's health insurance bill opposed by the AMA.

The political action committee earmarked $5,000 for Reps. James Hastings of New York, Steven Symms of Idaho and Manuel Lujan Jr. of New Mexico. All are Republicans who sponsored Medicare bills.

According to a tabulation by The Washington Post, the AMA's national arm and its 38 state and local committees have donated a total of $1.5 million to other congressmen who have not directly supported the AMA-favored measures.

The money was sent to political action committees affiliated with state medical associations for distribution to the candidates. The state organizations are free to add their own contributions.

Hunt Says He Decided to Quit Lyning

WASHINGTON (AP) — He said his attorneys advised him to tell everything he knew. Another factor was "I had sensed all along that my own children knew that my testimony was not candid in all respects ... I decided to tell the truth," he said.

Under questioning by Assistant Special Prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste, Hunt admitted that he had lied at least 12 times since granted immunity from prosecution on the basis of his testimony before a federal grand jury.

He said he lied about his contacts with former White House special counsel Charles Colson and fellow break-in defendant James McCord as well as about Watergate break-in trial, said that when he was subpoenaed this past summer to testify again, he was "faced with the hard decision of whether to continue to lie to protect others or to tell all."

Price Cut Planned — Saudi Arabia plans to announce shortly a modest unilateral reduction in the price of its oil and a plan to freeze the price at its new level for a year, according to an Arab source at the summit meeting here. The cut, said to be less than 10%, will be announced by the Saudi Arabians next week. Other oil-producing countries are expected to announce similar reductions shortly thereafter.

Ford: Viet Vets 'Silent Heroes'

By United Press International
President Ford in Veterans Day ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery Monday called Vietnam veterans "the silent heroes of their generation."

Across the nation, many veterans voiced the belief that they are the forgotten Americans. To many Americans, Veterans Day was noted as nothing more than a day when the mail was not delivered and federal offices were closed.

Ford ordered the federal government to hire 70,000 Vietnam veterans by July 1. Speaking at the national cemetery across the Potomac from the nation's capital, the President said:

"It has been said that the forgotten men of the Vietnam conflict are those who served. They're the silent heroes of their generation."

The President said action is under way to improve Veterans Administration services. And he pledged he will do "everything possible" to make sure that all the men missing in action in southeast Asia are accounted for.

In Washington, about 40 Vietnam veterans and their supporters marched to a veterans' assistance center and burned some 150 discharge papers. They said they would mail the ashes from their bonfire to the VA.

The demonstrators said they were protesting the military's multiple discharge system. Tim Butz, one of their leaders, said the government had held conspiracy trials to deny justice to political activists.

In Hines Veterans Hospital in Chicago, paraplegic Vietnam veteran Major Webster expressed the view that the only people who observe Veterans Day are veterans, their families, their widows and their orphans.

"To some people, we're just not human, and it seems we're just being forgotten about," Webster said.

"One vet helps another, but otherwise, it's a dog-eat-dog world. Everybody else is out for himself... If a vet needs help, they don't want to be bothered."

James Wainright, a World War II veteran from Goldsboro, N.C., who collects 30% disability, said: "Outside of the veterans' organizations, nobody much gives a damn — not even Congress."

To Lou Belleadeaux, a disabled World War II veteran from Lake Charles, La., forgetting the veteran was just part of the nation's transition from wartime to peacetime.

"People just start thinking about other things," he said. "There's a pattern. I saw it after the Second World War, after Korea, after Vietnam. People just want to forget, to go back to everyday life."

Kissinger Promises Food Aid To India Without Interference

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger lectured India, the newest member of the atomic club, on the perils of nuclear proliferation, then promised on Monday to help the hungry nation without interfering politically.

The speech to the Indian Council on World Affairs capped a busy day of reconciliation with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government. The American secretary of state also signed an agreement to set up a joint commission for cooperation in education, science and culture.

Mrs. Gandhi suggested in an interview published just hours before Kissinger arrived that the United States has only a marginal interest in India.

But she said Monday at a brief news conference: "With any two countries, any two individuals, things go up and down, but overall, relations with the United States are good." Sitting beside her, Kissinger interjected: "I agree with that completely. Relations are on the way up."

In his speech, Kissinger acknowledged that relations between the world's two largest democracies have tended "to oscillate between high expectations and deep suspicion."

The low point was in 1971, during the India-Pakistan war, and Kissinger said: "We faced these differences candidly. That crisis is now behind us."

His audience of businessmen, professionals and intellectuals interrupted the secretary several times with applause. But about 70 young persons outside shouted "Kissinger, go back" and waved their fists as he arrived and left the auditorium.

The secretary mentioned to the council India's explosion of a nuclear device on May 18, which it said was for peaceful purposes, and noted Mrs. Gandhi's promises not to develop nuclear weapons.

The blast made India the sixth country with nuclear capabilities. New Delhi has not signed the 1968 nonproliferation treaty because it says the treaty discriminates against countries without the bomb.

"A world in which an ever-increasing number of nations possess nuclear weapons vastly magnifies the risk of both regional and global conflict," he said. "And proliferation complicates, if it does not inhibit, international cooperation in the peaceful uses of the atom."

"Countries (like India) capable of exporting nuclear technology should agree to common restraints on a multilateral basis which would further the peaceful but inhibit the military uses of power," Kissinger said. On food, the secretary delicately promised that Washington would send help despite the reluctance of Mrs. Gandhi's government, and even some American officials, to admit that India is short of food. But its population has grown by 43 million in three years, is increasing by a million a month, and the growth in its food production has not kept up.

"The American people want to be helpful, while avoiding the dependence we both reject," Kissinger said. "Our new food program which I will outline at the World Food Conference next week will be of particular relevance to India."

Mrs. Gandhi and others in her government have decried American aid in the past, saying it came with unacceptable controls. This year, the United States gave back $2.2 billion in Indian rupees it had accumulated through U.S. aid.

Kissinger said the United States now accepts nonalignment, India's traditional foreign policy that caused frequent Indo-American squabbles in the 1950s.

How to Pick Sleepers in Rare Plates

NORTHBROOK, Ill. — A successful art dealer in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with high resale potential.

According to Thomas Gilmore II, president of this dealership, one exceptional plate priced at $25 in 1965 now brings $1,050, and another selling at $10 in 1969 now sells for $245.

Mr. Gilmore says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes." He offers a free report telling what to look for, what to pay, when to sell, and much more.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to Thomas Gilmore, Bradford Galleries, 378R Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. "A postcard will do. Because of limited quantities, please mail your request before November 9, 1974."

President Ford Signs 22 Bills... 'No-Knock' Law Repealed

Washington (UPI) — President Ford signed 22 bills into law Monday, including measures repealing the controversial "no-knock" drug raid law, expanding congressional control over exports of nuclear materials, and ending the nation's military commitment to defend Formosa and the Pescadores Islands.

Others rescinded the mandatory automobile seatbelt-ignition interlock requirement and provided a new commitment to the development of solar energy.

The 22 bills were among 36 that have been awaiting Ford's action since Congress began its election-period recess Oct. 18.

Adopted in 1970, the "no knock" laws allowed federal drug agents to enter a dwelling without notice after obtaining a court order. The laws were intended to prevent drug traffickers from getting rid of evidence while agents were stalled off at the door, but address mistakes led to terrorized citizens and shootouts so Congress voted repeal.

Ford also signed a bill which gives Congress the power to approve or disapprove the sale or gift of nuclear materials to foreign countries.

The nuclear export bill was initiated after then-President Richard M. Nixon promised Egypt and Israel nuclear power plants following his visit to the Middle East earlier this year.

Ford also signed an authorization bill for the State Department and the U.S. Information Agency which carried an amendment repealing the 1955 Formosa resolution.

The 1955 resolution had authorized the president to use the U.S. armed forces to protect Formosa and the Pescadores Islands in the Formosa Straits against attack from mainland China.

Ford had until midnight Tuesday to dispose of the remaining bills.

Among others signed Monday were measures to:

- Establish a solar energy coordination and management project that will conduct research and demonstrate the commercial use of several solar energy technologies. — Initiate a foreign investment study act by the Commerce and Treasury Departments to determine direct foreign and portfolio investment in the United States.

— Authorize an additional $14 million for administrative expenses of the U.S. Railway Association and extend reporting dates of the regional rail reorganization act in the Northeast corridor for 120 days beyond the present Oct. 29 deadline.

— Establish a University of the District of Columbia which will consolidate in one land-grant institution three existing schools — Federal City College, the Washington Technical Institute and the D.C. Teachers' College.

— Authorize appropriations of $5.5 million for 1975 fiscal year to carry out functions of the marine protection, research and sanctuaries act of 1972.

— Authorize appropriations of $741.9 million for State Department and $239.5 million for the USA for 1975 fiscal year.

— Amend the national visitors center facilities act of 1968 which authorizes $12.9 million in federal funds for construction of a national visitors center here.

— Increase an appropriation ceiling and make boundary changes in certain units of the national park system.

— Temporarily suspend duty on crude feathers and downs until June 30, 1979.

— Eliminate carriage, storage or handling of governmental or charitable property free or at reduced rates in intercoastal trade of the United States.

— Establish seven new units of the National Park Service and authorize appropriations of $1.3 million and $18.7 million for land acquisition and development respectively.

— Provide that a civil service retirement annuity which has been reduced to provide for survivor benefits may be recomputed to allow full annuity to the retiree during periods of non-marriage.

— Provide for the duty-free entry of methanol when imported for use in producing synthetic natural gas or for direct use as fuel.

— Suspend duty on bicycle parts and accessories.

— Transfer in trust 90.24 acres of federal land of the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribe of Sioux Indians of the Lake Traverse Reservation in North and South Dakota.

— Authorize the Sisseton and Wahpeton Tribe to consolidate its land holdings within the reservation.

Council Of Churches Asks World Food Cooperation

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The World Council of Churches appealed Monday to the oil producing countries and the industrialized world to cooperate in an arrangement to stave off "disaster... on our doorstep" because of food shortages.

The council told its 271 Protestant, Orthodox and Anglican member churches the world food crisis has made more apparent injustices in the world system of distributing grain. Member churches in 90 countries should press their governments and public for greater food production and more equitable distribution, the council said.

There is "greater readiness to believe that we are nearing the end of the road," the council said, and "unless we find a new and better one quickly we are headed for disaster."

The observations were in a major council report on the world's food problems, issued eight days before the start in Rome of a World Food Conference under the auspices of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

It proposed that the oil producers and the industrialized nations set up a "politically feasible" agreement under which the oil governments finance a fund for poor countries' agricultural development. They also would use flare gas from oil wells to produce fertilizer that is in critically short supply.

Under the proposed agreement, governments of industrialized countries would undertake to ration grain used to fatten cattle while increasing their grain production.

It praised the United States for having provided food relief to poor nations during former times of bad harvest.

A Waste Of Time?

We are tempted to view the submission of proposed constitutional amendments to Nebraska voters in this election as a waste of time. Certainly the issues are less than compelling.

Proposed Amendment No. 1 would enlarge the present elected eight-member Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska by adding three students as non-voting members. They would be the student body presidents of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, the University of Nebraska at Omaha and the University of Nebraska Medical Center. Their term of office would be for their period of service as student body presidents.

There are some advocates of student representation on the NU board of regents who view this proposed amendment as a halfbaked approach. We're inclined to agree with them. Having nonvoting representation on the board is not much more than students have now. It can also be argued that if students have representation on the board, why should not other elements of the university community, such as the faculty?

But we think that student contribution to the university governing process is a good and important thing. If the amendment is not enough, at least it is something. Nebraskans would not disrupt the board of regents in giving students a stronger voice by their vote for Amendment No. 1.

Proposed Amendment No. 2 would change the date and time when the Legislature convenes annually in regular session from noon on the first Tuesday in January to 10 a.m. on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in January.

This amendment was proposed to avoid the circumstance of the opening day of the session falling on New Year's Day, a holiday. Meeting on a holiday obviously would conflict with family obligations and viewing the football bowl games.

This is not a tremendously important item that the Legislature gives to the voters for their consideration, but we don't see that it would hurt anybody to vote for Amendment No. 2.

Proposed Amendment No. 3 would remove language now in the State Constitution which requires every order, resolution or vote of the Legislature to be presented to the governor for his approval or disapproval, but would retain the provision that every bill be presented to the governor for his signature.

Actually, bills are the only fruits of legislative labor which need the governor's approval or disapproval, anyway. The governor can't veto resolutions or orders. Such written intent of the Legislature is placed on the governor's desk in effect as a courtesy and to keep him informed. We see nothing wrong with that. It's a practice which should be continued.

Perhaps the voters would discourage the Legislature from submitting unnecessary stuff like this by voting against Amendment No. 3.

The System Weakens

There's little doubting that serious problems confront the two-party system in the United States. For several years, thoughtful observers have commented on the decreasing responsiveness of the two major parties to their constituencies and that ideologies and party labels don't match as they used to.

Thoughtful commentary on the decline of the two major parties as vital, cohesive political forces is now overshadowed by tough talk by nationally-recognized figures about the need for new vehicles to carry programs to political success.

George Wallace led the way in this, running for president as an independent or under the American party banner because he felt he was an outsider as far as the Democratic party was concerned. The Democratic Party has since tried to make peace with him, with many party leaders stating that they would accept him on the national ticket. But Wallace wants his ideas accepted as well as himself and he still threatens an independent effort.

Ronald Reagan, soon to leave the governor's mansion in California, also talks favorably of a third or fourth party presidential movement and there has been speculation centering on a possible Reagan-Wallace embrace.

Sen Lowell Weicker, the Ervin Committee member who was perhaps the harshest critic of the Nixon White House during the Watergate investigation, now is talking about leaving the Republican Party and run for re-election to the U.S. Senate from Connecticut as an independent in 1976. Gene McCarthy is leading a splinter party effort.

Are these threats by frustrated and ambitious political figures to be taken seriously? Are these independent or third or fourth party crusades merely expressions of personal vanity?

In some respects they are. But the handwriting is on the wall as far as the future of the major political parties is concerned and it is a grim message. Republican strength is at rockbottom. The numbers of registered independents are growing rapidly. The largest block of affiliated voters — the Democratic Party — is divided and lacking leadership. The parties may be able to withstand the defections of a few Weickers, Reagans or Wallaces but they will ignore the trend at their own peril.

TOM WICKER

Jaworski And Sirica

NEW YORK — Mr. Leon Jaworski has resigned as special Watergate prosecutor, saying his job was done. Judge John J. Sirica is presiding over the second Watergate trial he did so much to bring about. A little silence is now in order from both gentlemen.

Since his resignation, Jaworski has taken to the talk shows and the interview circuit that he regarded as largely off limits when he held the prosecutor's job. Among other things, he has stated flatly that Richard Nixon took part in the original Watergate cover-up and that, he, Jaworski, came to that conclusion by last December, only about two months after taking office.

Because he was the special prosecutor during most of the Watergate investigations, Jaworski is bound to have considerable public impact when he makes such a flat assertion that Nixon was guilty of the crime of conspiring to obstruct justice — which is what the five present Watergate defendants are charged with. Indeed, Jaworski says that conclusion about Nixon's guilt colored his conduct during the remainder of his tenure as special prosecutor.

Yet, when Jaworski had the opportunity — some might say his duty — to seek an indictment of Nixon for the part he believed Nixon to have played in the Watergate cover-up, he did not do so. If reliable accounts are to be trusted, he counseled the grand jury that it could not indict a sitting president and persuaded it to name Nixon only as an unindicted co-conspirator.

and that the pardon, in fact, was in violation of federal rules guaranteeing the independence of the special prosecutor's office.

When congressional suggestions were heard that Jaworski should write a comprehensive report on his investigation, fully covering any part Nixon had played in the Watergate and related matters, and setting forth all the substantiating facts, Jaworski responded that he did not have the authority to do so, although that appeared to be a narrow reading of his mandate. Congress clearly would have provided the necessary authority, had he asked.

Then, in his letter of resignation, Jaworski went out of his way to make it clear that it was not prompted by the Nixon pardon — even though he has now said that Nixon was guilty. He went out of his way, as well, to specify that the pardon was a proper exercise of presidential power which it would have been "intellectually dishonest" for him to challenge.

Not much concern appears in this record for fair play, either to five defendants being prosecuted by his office for what Jaworski says Nixon was guilty of, or to Nixon himself, who is publicly labeled guilty of a crime by a man who should know, but who refused either to prosecute Nixon or to make a formal, documented report on the charges that could have been brought.

As for Sirica, some may say in mitigation of his prosecutorial conduct of the first Watergate trial that without such an effort the case never would have been unravelled, a special prosecutor never would have been appointed, the whole chain of events leading to Nixon's resignation never would have been set off. That may be true although conjectural but what is to be said of the judge's remarkable conduct of the second trial now under way?

Out of the presence of the jury, he chose to lecture John Mitchell, a defendant, to the effect that Mitchell, then attorney general, could have prevented the whole Watergate case from occurring. This was tantamount to a statement that Mitchell was a part of the conspiracy and is therefore guilty as charged. Whether this is grounds for mistrial remains to be seen but it can give no one much confidence in Sirica's impartiality; and if that confidence is lacking, how can there be confidence in the even-handedness of his rulings?

In the presence of the jury, Sirica then made remarks tending plainly to suggest that defense attorneys had done a "pretty good job" in making John Dean out to be a liar. A later admonition to the jury that this had not constituted an opinion about the witness can hardly undo the potential damage to the prosecution.

But Sirica had already disclosed in court and to the jury that he was "not trying to try this case on strict rules of evidence" but intended instead to get the full truth of Watergate; he even spelled out the word truth, to drive home his point.

If that was a reference to Nixon's role, Sirica ought to know that Nixon already has been pardoned and cannot be tried for that role, that the purpose of the present trial is only to determine the guilt or innocence of the five defendants, and that establishing the "T-R-U-T-H" of Watergate is not the business of a criminal court or a zealous judge.

MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — Damned if you do and damned if you don't — That is the wry conclusion of President Ford as he stumps across the country trying to pull Republican-congressional candidates out of the slough of despond. He is being roundly scolded for playing the partisan game and thereby further dividing an already fractured nation. Instead he should be taking the high road of unity to pull people together for the common goal of fighting inflation. By denouncing the Democrats as big spenders in-state after state, he is betraying that goal.

But it takes practically no imagination to hear the chorus of complaint that would arise if he had followed the other course and had stayed in the White House with the image of a national leader. Hard-pressed Republicans would have denounced him, as they did Richard Nixon, for being indifferent not only to their fate, but to the future of the party.

Likewise, the blame for inflation should be shared by both parties. Lyndon Johnson's escalation of the Vietnam war was one of the principal causes, with no tax increase to make up at least part of the deficit.

As a member of the House of Representatives, later minority leader, Gerald Ford voted for every Vietnam appropriation requested by President Johnson. With one comparatively minor exception, he voted for all the big arms bills before Congress during his 25 years there.

At times on the campaign trail, Ford has made it sound as though the choice had been between sitting in his oval office in the White House and thinking or taking the Republican case to the country. That is an oversimplification that cannot be sustained in fact.

Sticking to the job of President, he might have helped to rescue funds for mass transit out of the clutches of the highway lobby. While his threat to veto the aid bill if it contained a ban on arms assistance to Turkey brought a compromise, a more direct and vigorous intervention might have moved aid out of the no-man's land where it languishes today.

The analogy with Harry Truman is false. Truman's give 'em hell campaign in 1948 came after he had been president for nearly four years. He was attacking a Republican majority in a congress that divided on more or less clearcut party lines over social legislation. Inflation and recession were not factors.

Republicans in 1972 rang a change on George McGovern's far-out campaign promises with a plea that went "Come home, George McGovern." Maybe "Come Home, Gerald Ford" is right for a President crisscrossing the country and tying his future to a losing campaign.

The Stump Makes Uneasy Footing

"You Folks Have To Tighten Your Belts And Bite The Democrats"

Whether he wrestled with the choice or whether he is just doing what comes naturally is of no moment, since the die is cast. He has tied his fortunes to GOP candidates, many of whom are almost certain to go down to defeat in an election campaign marked by resounding apathy, even the President of the United States has failed to draw sizable and enthusiastic crowds.

In my opinion, the President made the wrong choice. I say this while realizing how difficult it would have been for him to say no to the appeals of one beleaguered candidate after another. The error of his choice has been compounded by his use of the threat that greatly enlarged Democratic majorities in Congress would jeopardize the administration's foreign policy initiatives.

The blame on this score is broad enough to cover both parties. An example is the foreign aid mess. Conservative Republicans have consistently voted against aid.

With aid snarled over the Turkish stand on Cyprus, the hope that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger might employ foreign aid grants to implement a Middle East peace is deferred if not canceled. During his shuttle diplomacy earlier this year, Kissinger had encouraged Egypt to believe in a $250 million grant which would be largely used to restore the Suez Canal and the ruined cities along the canal.

JACK ANDERSON

Taxpayers Railroaded

WASHINGTON — Twelve little words, which the White House has slipped into a railroad reform measure, could cost the taxpayers a whopping $250 million a year.

That comes close to $21 million a word. The costly, 12-word clause is buried in an ant bed of print, where congressmen aren't supposed to notice it. It appears as a simple, 12-word adjustment of government rail freight rates, a seemingly insignificant clause in a massive, highly technical railroad bill.

At present, the Interstate Commerce Act authorizes low rates for government shipments. The cheap rates were worked out years ago to repay the government for giving the railroads perpetual rights-of-way on government land.

The 12 words simply state that the low rates would apply only in time of war. This would cost the taxpayers $242 million a year in Pentagon shipments alone, not to mention well over $7 million for nonmilitary goods.

The Nixon administration was responsible for sneaking this $250 million clause onto page 98 of the 106-page railroad measure. But President Ford's people have been alerted to the 12-word giveaway by the Pentagon, which is caught in an inflationary squeeze and can't afford to pay $242 million more a year in freight charges.

Yet the White House, despite Ford's appeal to reduce government spending, is still trying to slip the $250 million clause through Congress.

The boondoggle is described in secret official correspondence and a confidential General Accounting Office report, which we have uncovered as part of our watch on waste.

The GAO report claims that the rails carried at least 5.3 billion tons of government goods during a seven-month survey. The payout from the U.S. Treasury was $80.8 million under the existing low rates.

As evidence this was no hardship upon the railroads, the GAO alleges it cost the railroads only $37.2 million to deliver the government shipments. Even this figure was fudged up slightly by the railroads, the GAO suggests.

In other words, even under the low rates, the railroads salted away a generous $43.6 million profit. But if the new White House rates had been used, the same shipments would have cost the taxpayers $186.4 million and the railroads would have wound up with a staggering $149.2 million profit.

The giveaway clause was discovered by cost-conscious Deputy Defense Secretary Bill Clements, who wrote a panicky "Dear Roy" letter to White House budget boss Roy Ash. Clements said the White House rates would cost

'Ruffians' Offensive

Lincoln, Neb. I have put off writing this letter because I thought I should wait until I cooled down a bit.

But I find I am still angry at the boorish behavior of a small group of demonstrators who interfered with my hearing of President Ford's remarks in Lincoln.

These people were presumably exercising their right of free speech under the First Amendment. But they were violating the President's right — and my right — by beating a drum and shouting while he was speaking.

Judging from their shouts, I take it they are opposed to the candidates supported by the President. Does it follow, then, that they support Hess Dyas and other Democratic candidates? And just as importantly, does Mr. Dyas and his party endorse the views on such issues as legalizing marijuana which the demonstrators urged?

It seems to me that in the absence of a repudiation of the support of these ill-mannered ruffians, we can only assume the answer is yes.

Blacks Overcome History

Lincoln, Neb. Raised with my fair share of prejudices, events brought about by the black upheaval have convinced me that black is beautiful and that they did not get a fair shake in our history books. Observing their spokesmen on national television, I see good looking, sober, clean-cut, articulate men making a lot of sense.

Mayor Hatcher of Gary, Indiana is a good example. He opposes the harsh law and order simple solution to solving crimes and he can speak with authority. Using progressive methods Gary has had a decline in the crime rate and received laudatory commendation from the Department of Justice.

When I was a small boy I was amazed to see how the strongest would often pick on the weakest in very un-sportsmanlike manner. Human nature is consistent and I have seen examples of it in other generations. This same attitude is apparent in our contemporary society. Some people don't realize it, some don't care but for those of us who have a high sense of fairness it is intolerable.

Task Force Gets Housing Request

The City Council Monday night sent to a newly formed task force a request to build specialized housing for the physically handicapped in Lincoln.

The request came from the League of Human Dignity, which asked the city to seek federal dollars to pay for construction of a 20-25-unit apartment complex.

League Director Stephen Slaikau said there are federal funds available to cities for construction of such "barrier free environments," which would include specialized services for the disabled. Such services would include 24-hour minimum attendant care and optional laundry, dining and cleaning services.

Community Development

Director Leo Scherer said dollars may be available either through the Community Development Act or under the National Elderly and Handicapped Loan fund.

However, Scherer termed the league's request "somewhat premature," since the city is just about to embark on a housing assistance plan to obtain community development dollars.

A new task force, originally billed the city management and implementation task force but now called the community development task force, will hold its first meeting at 3 p.m. Tuesday to discuss the plan. The committee was appointed by Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf and will include city officials, the Housing Authority and Councilmen John Robinson and Bob Sikyta.

In other action the council approved a personnel contract with the County Board to handle selection and recruitment for the county.

Personnel Director Walt Mitchell said he expected the agreement with the county to be evaluated in about six months to see how the agreement is working, how much time city officials are spending working for the county and what the tab to the county will be. The County Board estimated the cost to be around $12,000.

In further business, the lawmakers referred proposed development guidelines for the so-called Haymarket Square block to city departments for further scrutiny.

That action came as a result of proposed changes made Monday night by the Journal-Star Printing Co., one of the firms seeking to develop the block, from 9th to 10th, Q to R. The newspaper proposes to use the area for storage, parking and trucking operations.

One other proposal has been submitted by the Francis Building Co., of Sioux City, which proposes to build a motel-convention center on the site.

At issue were proposed development guidelines and a Dec. 9 hearing date on the two proposals.

The guidelines were tightened last week by the council when it took action which could limit the options open to potential developers of the block.

The council proposed to tighten up those options by spelling out in the guidelines what land uses would be given priority billing. Those uses, based on downtown consultants Barton-Aschman's plan, would include a hotel-motel complex, parking space or a museum. Secondary functions, the consultants said, would include an information center or open space.

But that proposal to possibly limit the city's options in developing the land came under fire from Journal-Star attorney David Tews.

Tews submitted an amendment which would allow the council to consider all proposed uses, including the Journal-Star warehousing operations.

Tews also requested that the public hearing be held in January instead of December to give the developers time to draw up detailed plans as required in the guidelines.

Those guidelines also require that at least 15% of the block be set aside for landscaping, that the developer submit for city approval plot plans and a drawing of the development as it would look from the southbound ramp of Interstate 180 and that intensive building on the north half of the block be restricted.

The council referred Tews' proposed changes to the law and planning departments for comments. The lawmakers said they will discuss the guidelines next Monday at a morning meeting.

Patricia Hearst

Return Proposal Scrubbed

San Francisco (UPI) — The tears of Randolph and Catherine Hearst for their daughter's life ended a daring underworld plan to return the young fugitive by force, a Hearst attorney said Monday.

Attorney James J. MacInnis said former mobster Mickey Cohen proposed a plan to bring Patricia Hearst here, but the ex-convict warned that resistance on her part could result in a shootout or similar dangers.

MacInnis said the plan was rejected because Hearst "wouldn't want to put something into motion to cause his daughter to be harmed."

The attorney, who was with the Hearsts when they met with Cohen in Los Angeles three weeks ago, said Mr. and Mrs. Hearst did not doubt that Cohen had contacts and was sincere in his efforts, but they feared his plan was too dangerous.

Cohen said last week that he had located Miss Hearst and her Symbionese Liberation Army companions, William and Emily Harris, through black radicals and numbers of racket runners. He refused at that time to divulge the location, but during the weekend said that the trio had been in Cleveland.

Infatuations Understood By Actress

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Olivia deHavilland says she can understand her 18-year-old daughter's infatuation with Robert Redford and Paul Newman. "I remember being very torn between Ronald Coleman and Gary Cooper," she said.

Miss deHavilland made the comment after she and her daughter Giselle saw the motion picture "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," which stars Redford and Newman.

She said her daughter recently persuaded her mother, 58, to try bicycle riding around Williamsburg, Va.

"I hadn't been on a bicycle in 40 years," she said. "People who recognized me couldn't believe it, Olivia deHavilland riding around on a bike in a mink and pearls."

The heroine of nine Errol Flynn epics, which put her name in lights, says her favorite roles were the heavier parts that came later in her career. She cited "Gone with the Wind," "The Snake Pit," "The Heiress," and "To Each His Own." She won Academy Awards for the latter two.

Potential Voters 2,220 Fewer Than In 1972

There are 2,220 fewer potential voters in the upcoming Nov. 5 election than there were for the 1972 presidential balloting.

Voter registration closed last week with 42,195 Lancaster Countians registered as Democrats. 41,971 registered as Republicans and 5,800 signing as independents.

The Democrat lead of 224 potential voters is a first for traditionally Republican Lancaster County.

Total registration this year is 89,966 compared with 92,186 who registered in 1972.

2-Mile Parade 'Rehearsal' For Bigger Book Protest

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Several thousand demonstrators — most of them women and children — marched nearly two miles Monday to press their opposition to school use of books they consider "un-American" or "un-Christian."

It was the latest facet of a two-month campaign to get the books banned from local schools.

The march was peaceful. Leaders called it a dress rehearsal for a bigger parade Nov. 11.

The campaign started when school opened last month, and has included boycotts and sometimes tense picketing that have, at times, shut schools and local mines.

The Rev. Marvin Horan, one of several fundamentalist ministers among the protesters' leadership, urged the crowd to keep children out of school all year if necessary.

Brown, sister of another leader, the Rev. Ezra Graley. "We've always lived in West Virginia. My family always associated with colored people. In fact, we'd love for them to come out and join us — it's their country, too."

Virtually all those demonstrating were white. "Down with communism," a Davis Creek woman chanted in singsong as they marched.

"And all the Communists on the board," she continued. "And all over the United States," added another. "Amen, they're in Washington and right here in Charleston," the first woman said.

The line tied up traffic, but many motorists honked in support. And at a fire station near the state Capitol, a long, slow siren moaned as firemen waved and grinned.

For County Commissioner

QUALIFICATIONS:

- 32 year-old, life-long Lincoln resident.
- Graduate of the University of Nebraska.
- Practicing Lincoln attorney.
- Formerly Director of the Legal Aid Society of Lincoln.
- Former Peace Corps Volunteer.

IT'S TIME TO MAKE COUNTY GOVERNMENT GOOD GOVERNMENT.

Paid for by a lot of People for Hamilton for County Commissioner. 1030 Que Street, 475-1071. Charles Pallesen, Chairperson, 2727 Royal Court, Charlie Hamilton, Treasurer, 1836 Brent, Mary Zilly, and Mike Steinman, Campaign Coordinators

you can trust THONE

To work for election form.

Congressman Charley Thone sponsored election reform legislation much tougher than the bill actually passed by Congress in 1974. He worked on the floor of the House of Representatives to put more teeth into the election reform measure. He will continue to fight for laws to prevent domination of elections by special interests. Charley Thone feels so strongly on this matter that he has voluntarily set a limit of $100 per year that any individual can contribute to his campaign. He is refusing campaign contributions from political action committees or special interest groups. Charley Thone won't be beholden to special interests. In Washington, his only obligation will continue to be to ALL the people of Nebraska's First Congressional District.

Ford Supported More Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Ford was House minority leader, he supported 86 per cent of the measures that increased spending above the amounts sought by the Republican administration, the Democratic Study group staff said Monday.

Moreover, the staff of the organization of 170 liberal and moderate House Democrats said, Congress has increased spending by less than one tenth of one per cent over the amounts requested in the last four years by former President Richard M. Nixon.

Ford's charge earlier this month "that Democrats in Congress are primarily responsible for increases in federal spending does not hold water," the DSG staff said. "In fact, it is ridiculous in light of its own record as a congressman and that of the overwhelming majority of Republicans."

Ford was chosen vice president late in 1973 to succeed the resigned Spiro T.

Agnew and succeeded to the presidency Aug. 9 when Nixon resigned.

Of the measures that increased spending during 1971 through 1973, the DSG study said, Ford supported 86 per cent of them, Democrats 93 per cent and Republicans 90 per cent.

Ford, in effect, approved $16.9 billion in extra spending it said.

A summary of recent federal budgets showed administration funding requests of $1.044 trillion and spending following congressional action of $1.05 trillion.

"President Nixon's spending requests ran up a deficit . . . of over $50 billion, of which only 12 per cent can be attributed to congressional action," the study said.

"The rest of the huge deficit can largely be blamed on inept Republican economic policies which have driven the economy into two recessions, causing enormous fall-offs in tax revenues."

Congress, meanwhile, the study continued cut $11.3 billion in foreign aid and military-spending funds and shifted them to the domestic sector.

Using figures from the Joint Committee on Reduction of Federal Expenditures, the DSG report showed that congressional impact on the budget requests submitted by Nixon reduced them $680 million in fiscal year 1972, increased them $6.13 billion in fiscal 1973, increased them $2.42 billion in fiscal 1974 and decreased them $1.66 billion for fiscal 1975.

During the four-year period, 82 measures increased spending over the presidential budget requests — 27 appropriations bills and 55 authorization bills. These raised outlays by about $22 billion, the report said, but other bills cut requests by about $15.8 billion, for a net congressional increase of $6.2 billion.

On only five of those 82 votes did a majority of House Republicans vote against the higher spending, it said.

Soviets Back In Egypt's Economy

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The Soviet Union, Egypt's major military and economic backer until a year ago, has agreed to resume a leading role in the Egyptian economy, Minister of Planning Ismail Abdullah said Monday.

Abdullah, a member of an Egyptian delegation that visited Moscow two weeks ago, said the Soviets promised to participate in two major industrial projects — an iron and steel complex in Alexandria and an aluminum factory in upper Egypt.

The Russians also agreed to provide Egypt with a $50 million loan to finance economic projects over the next 14 months, he added, and to "reactivate long-promised economic aid."

The minister disclosed the Soviet offers as he announced details of a $2 billion interim economic plan that will lead up to a five-year plan beginning in 1976.

The two large Soviet projects

— successors to the Soviet-built $400 million Helwan steel mill and the $1 billion Aswan Dam — are seen as keystones of Egypt's five-year plan, along with large-scale investment from the West and Arab states.

Egypt, which hopes the plan will result in an economic boom by the early 1980s, is looking for more than $2 billion in investment from the United States alone and is encouraging scores of Japanese, European and Arab investors to take part in other industrial projects.

Abdullah said details of the two Soviet projects, plus a $100 million extension to the Helwan complex, were still being discussed. He added Egypt had told the Soviets no interference in economic or political affairs would be allowed to accompany the industrial aid.

The 1976-81 development plan will be the first to define a role for foreign and private investors under President Anwar Sadat's new economic liberalization policies.

U.N. Aid Asked To Stop Cyprus Partition

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Cyprus appealed Monday to the United Nations to help block what it called a Turkish plan to partition the Mediterranean island.

"Unless we move quickly enough, there may be no independent and sovereign state of Cyprus next year," former Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou, a Greek Cypriot, told the General Assembly.

Opening a week-long debate on the Cyprus crisis, he accused Turkey of using more than 200,000 refugees there as "pawns" for a political solution unacceptable to the Cypriots.

No substantive agreement is expected in the assembly. With Cyprus and Turkey widely split, the nonaligned group has been unable to come up with a compromise solution. Neither Turkey nor Greece, both run by caretaker governments, is likely to commit itself.

A resolution introduced Monday by Cyprus ruled out "division in any form" into Turkish Cypriot and Greek autonomous zones and called for the "immediate withdrawal of all foreign armed forces."

Kyprianou declared there could be no bargaining on his government's position that all refugees must be allowed to return to their homes. He added for a political solution of Cyprus must be decided exclusively by agreement between the island's two ethnic communities.

Kyprianou likened the methods employed by Turkey in its invasion of Cyprus last July to those of Attila the Hun and Hitler. Turkey said it took the action to forestall any unification of the island with Greece after the overthrow July 15 of President Makarios.

The assembly decided to hear representatives of the rival Cypriot communities Tuesday before the Special Political Committee.

More than 40,000 Turkish troops now control almost all the northern half of Cyprus. The Turkish Cypriots, outnumbered 4 to 1 by the Greek community, have established separate administrations in the occupied zone and want a permanent federation of Greek and Turkish Cypriot zones.

On Cyprus, Greek and Turkish Cypriots completed their prisoner of war exchange Monday in the capital, Nicosia. The final group was made up of 251 Greek and 267 Turkish Cypriots.

NOW Leader Knocks Cheerful Descriptions

San Jose, Calif. (UPI) — The president of the National Organization for Women has criticized the cheerful descriptions of Betty Ford and Happy Rockefeller following their mastectomies.

Karen DeCrow, an attorney from Syracuse, N.Y., said women who have a breast removed "are not bright and happy and feeling great physically two days or two weeks later," but may be "depressed for years."

However, Ms. DeCrow added that the successful operations on the wives of President Ford and Vice President-designate Nelson Rockefeller could have a beneficial impact by alerting women to the positive aspects of modern health care.

La Paz — A warm and sunny day on the Sea of Cortez. A few ragged palms along the beach. Copper-colored hills behind the town of La Paz.

The sparkling white Island Princess is anchored in a blue bay and ship's launches chug back and forth to the shore. The Princess was bought the other day by British P and O Line.

The Norwegian flag will come down. A British crew will take over.

We are exploring new cruise ports in the Gulf of California. Local people have never seen a ship of this size — 581 passengers, and a crew of 320. When we hit the beaches, it's an invasion.

I got a taxi on the shore and headed for town. The taxi driver said: "How many people on that enormous boat, Senor?"

"I said: 'Altogether, about 900.'"

"God save us," said the taxi driver. "La Paz will lie in ruins."

Sports fishermen have discovered Baja California. La Paz is now a bustling little town of 63,000. Capital of the Territory. (It will soon be a full Mexican state.)

There are several small — but good — tourist hotels. A new Presidente is building and the older Los Arcos is adding a wing. Expensive fishing boats rock on the quiet bay. And at one store, you can buy the day's Los Angeles newspapers.

Even so, 900 ship's visitors is a shock.

It's a brown land. The desert comes down to the edge of the ink-blue water. Cactus and mesquite.

Great Cortez himself came here after the Conquest. He marched around the beach, moving stones and making sword cuts in scruffy trees. All noted by the Royal Notary.

He took over the land for Charles of Spain. Left a small colony — which went broke immediately.

Later expeditions found the sea crammed with oysters. And for years, they flooded Spain with pearls.

The oysters disappeared a few decades ago. (It's a story here that Japanese fishing boats introduced an oyster disease to ease competition with the cultivated pearls of Japan.)

A sleepy Mexican colonial village at the end of nowhere, La Paz escaped revolutions. Survived William Walker, soldier-of-fortune — "the grey-eyed man of destiny."

It sold beans to Baja cowboys. Fished for shrimps. Dozed in summer heat.

Then the sports fishermen came — the Sea of Cortez is stuffed with marlin and grouper. Rooster fish and dorado. Sailfish that go 150 pounds.

Now come the big cruise ships. Five years from now we'll be saying: "Why, I remember La Paz when..."

The taxi driver said: "If these big ships come all the time, Senor, we will soon be rich. Like Acapulco. Like Puerto Vallarta."

He said: "Dios, if I were rich, I would buy five more taxis."

He said: "You know Luis Coppola? He owns the Hotel Los Arcos?"

He said: "You see the new building he adds to the hotel?"

You see the new Presidente hotel?"

"Believe me, Senor, when you see those people building and building, then you know those rich people are going to get richer."

"What a pity that I have no money. Ah, thank you, Senor, you are generous. Good journey to you. God travel with you."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST
☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecasts For Tuesday

Cancer who surprised me: Milton Bortle. Cancer who delights me: Mary Griffin. Cancer who charms me: Della Reese. Cancer who has played a role in my life: Ari Linkletter. Cancer can be warm, generous, and usually is successful. Cancer has doubts about Gemini, makes money with Leo, holds spirited discussions with Virgo, travels with Pisces, makes love to Scorpio, signs agreements with Capricorn, indulges in fantasies with Taurus.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Truth looms large and demands a curtain call. Means this is no time for hiding, obscuring factual information. Pisces, Virgo persons figure prominently. Cycle is high and you can take cold plunge and emerge a winner. Meaning of message will crystallize!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You have signs on goal — but your methods may be shoddy. Realize it and do something about it. Older individual — Capricorn or Cancer — will lend benefit of experience. Accident is on what goes on behind the scenes. Don't argue with "cranky" relative.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You find out how to deal with a volatile individual. Key now is to know when to say "no." Emphasis is on completion. Start making some people realize you have life of your own to live. Then you earn respect — even love.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): New opportunity is on horizon. Professional associate makes move for you. You are given added responsibility. With it come more pressure and a chance to add to earnings. Leo, Aquarius figure prominently.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You have down-to-earth discussion with co-worker or one who deserves you. You also find where you want to go and the best way to arrive at destination. Father is your ally. Don't reach too far, too soon. Follow through on hunch. You will be aided by "teacher."

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You may find that budget considerations are more important than usual. You learn how to stretch — and you become more versatile. In actuality, you receive good news. You make gain but have chance to save for something "really big."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Check details — be thorough. Refuse to be painted into corner. Accent is on legal affairs, co-operative efforts, relationships with partner, mate. You get practical results from efforts. You also learn — yet again — that no person is going to hand you something of value for nothing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Some around you will resist change. This should neither surprise nor discourage you. Accent is on employment, better understanding of those who perform special services. Be specific about meanings. Analyze and draw deductions based on facts. Gemini, Virgo are involved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Adjustment on home front is necessary. You may be too intense — a bit of relaxation could work wonders, especially with Taurus, Scorpio, and Libra family members. Refuse to be intimidated by younger person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You get nothing for nothing, although some now would have you believe otherwise. Emphasis is on selectivity, property value, legal standing. Pisces, Virgo persons figure in picture. Construction costs should be estimated.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Some persons, who previously talked without doing anything, now come to life and perform definite actions. Be ready! Capricorn, Cancer are likely to be involved. Accent is on special call, message which galvanizes plans, thoughts into something solid.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You can get rid of losing financial situation. Don't chase your money. Reinvest. Review. Change. Be sure your broker isn't getting his tips from you. Means deal with mature, responsible people. Accent better money management.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you made adjustment on home front this year and it was important, especially last month. November will be good for responsibility, love and money. You are intuitive, a good teacher and attract Leo, Aquarius persons. You are going through a fascinating cycle and it will culminate in 1976 with vindication and greater security. Bear this in mind during rough emotional sieges at times in 1975.

Make Halloween Safer For Your Children

Come Thursday night around dusk, little ghouls, goblins, ghosts and witches will be prowling the Lincoln streets.

First in their minds, as they dash from house to house and from one side of the street to the other, are the handful of treats they will have when they return home.

First in the minds of their parents is safety.

To ensure that safety, Leighton Wessel of the Lincoln Police Department suggested several tips for parents and children.

Youngsters should stay in their own neighborhoods on Halloween night and, "whenever possible, a parent should accompany the children," he said.

Wessel also advised parents to apply reflective tape to the costumes and to let the children carry flashlights, so that they will be easily seen by motorists.

"Some costumes are really unsafe. The costumes are too loose, shoes are unsafe, masks cause reduced vision and 'trick or treat' bags are bulky," he said.

"Many children often carry dangerous things such as long sticks," he added. "And remember, there is always the danger of fire with false hair, and lit candles carried in pumpkins."

He also emphasized that parents should instruct their children to refrain from eating any candy or fruit before it has been inspected at home.

"Fruit should be washed and cut into small pieces," he said, "and candy or popcorn with loose or torn wrappers should be thrown away."

"Encourage your children to stay on the sidewalks and watch for cars. Also tell the kids they might look strange, so they should beware of dogs."

Wessel also noted that people greeting the youngsters can help ensure their safety by keeping the porch light on, meeting them at the door and not encouraging them to come inside. "And jack-o'-lanterns should be placed where the kids won't trip over them," he added.

"Don't just turn your older children loose on Halloween night," Wessel warned parents. "Know where they are going and tell them to be home at a certain time."

"Actually, we suggest that parents have parties at home," he concluded.

Halloween parties at home can be successful and viable alternatives to wandering the streets on Halloween.

According to Mrs. Joyce Watmore, she and four other mothers began their Halloween party tradition five years ago.

On a rotating basis, each mother hosts the annual party in her home. However, Mrs. Watmore pointed out, all of the mothers usually help with the decorations and plans.

"We start with about 12 of our own children and each child gets to invite one friend," she said. "This year we will have about 25 or 30 kids."

"We have a lot of games and each mother brings special treats like popcorn balls, caramel apples, Halloween sandwiches and drinks. Each mother also brings a few small bags of candy and we ask each guest to bring one small bag of candy."

"This year we are going to have a pumpkin decorating contest and we will give six prizes," she added.

"At the end of the party, each mother goes to a different part of the room, the kids form a line and go around and pick up their treats."

"We feel this is a lot safer and we know where the candy is coming from," she emphasized. "The first year the kids were a little disappointed that they couldn't go out 'trick or treating' but now they really look forward to it."

Learn To Spot Fake Antiques

Learn to spot fake furniture antiques. Old carving is never sharp-edged because years of dusting, cleaning and rubbing smooths the edges. Fake wormholes are straight and tend to be near the surface; real wormholes meander and go far into the wood. Finely made dowels are an indication of an age but not necessarily proof.

Handmade nails have been reproduced and are also not necessarily an indication of age.

Substitute Rice Flour

Rice flour comes from milled rice that is ground. This flour can be substituted for wheat in baking, and since rice is non-allergenic, it's a boon to those allergic to wheat flour products.

Anti-Libber Is A Militant Housewife

Boulder, Colo. (UPI) — Hilma Skinner, mother of three, would rather bake apple crisps than burn her bra. She's a militant housewife and proud of it.

She is working to organize an antiwomen's lib group in Colorado called Happiness of Womanhood (HOW).

"They want to undermine the family by teaching housewives that there is something wrong with you if you don't get out into the working world," she said of women's libbers.

The former part-time door-to-door cosmetic saleswoman says housewives are becoming disturbed with the message.

"They are like lionesses," she said. "You disturb a lioness in her den and she will fight back. Housewives are being forced out of the home and they are going to fight to stay home where they belong."

Mrs. Skinner said she isn't opposed to women working. She did object, however, to attempts to erase the image of the feminine girl and the motherly housewife.

"The don't want to show the mother at home cleaning and baking, but we do," said Mrs.

Skinner. "We don't want girls to grow up with the idea that there is something wrong with staying home and doing those things."

Mrs. Skinner said a working mother cannot do justice to both her job and the task of being a mother.

"We're not against those who want to make a career instead of having a family or those who are forced to get out of the home because they are the sole support of their children," Mrs. Skinner said. "But whenever possible, the family should come first."

Mrs. Skinner said one of her major efforts is opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment which has been ratified by Colorado and more than 30 other states.

"I was for it when I first heard about it — equal pay for equal work and all of that," she said. "But I think there is more to it."

"I'll tell you where it is leading us. It is leading us toward a nation where women give up their right to have their husbands support them — where women become criminally liable for half of the family's income."

spades, two diamonds and two clubs.

But West could have beaten the contract by playing the queen on the first heart lead. To do so could not cost him a trick. If South had the jack, dummy's five hearts were all tricks, while if East had the jack, the queen play might hold dummy to two tricks.

Declarer could not have recovered from the queen play. Restricted to two tricks in each suit, he inevitably would have failed.

It is true that a defender usually follows low when he is second-hand and rarely plays a high card in order to force a higher one from dummy. But here the queen is clearly the right play. West can easily assume that if he plays low on the first heart lead declarer will also play low from dummy.

It follows from this that if it is to declarer's advantage to play the eight after West plays the five, it must be correspondingly disadvantageous for West to allow him to do so. He should therefore put up the queen.

Opening lead - five of spades.

This rule of playing second-hand-low on defense is generally a very sound practice, but, as with all generalities, you shouldn't allow the rule to dominate your thinking.

West led a spade, won by South with the ten. With only eight tricks in sight, it was obvious to declarer that his most promising source for a ninth lay in hearts. Accordingly, he played a heart and finessed the eight after West followed low.

East took the jack — he could have saved a trick by ducking — and returned a spade. Eventually South scored ten tricks consisting of four hearts, two

Medication for Clothes Addicts

Admitting that there is a problem may be the first step on the road to recovery for the "clothes addict."

Closets crammed with "worn once" garments, frequent compulsive shopping trips to favorite stores and an impulsive desire to buy clothes unnecessarily are the disease symptoms.

Clothes addiction can strike any age bracket and is probably more serious, given today's economic situation, according to Gail Skinner, Extension textiles, clothing and design specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

First, the consumer must recognize that American society encourages over-buying. People are constantly bombarded with messages indicating that to become more attractive, to get a particular job, to be loved, to get attention one must be "in fashion."

Clothes buying sprees may be the aftermath of a family upset, an outlet for boredom or a means used to cover insecurity. For the elderly, store visits may

Food Stamps Have New Use

If you think it's a hassle to do the family's weekly food shopping at the supermarket, consider this. Under new Food Stamp regulations which went into effect on July 15, families receiving Food Stamps in remote areas of Alaska can now use food coupons to purchase certain hunting and fishing equipment for procuring food.

Women Do Most Of Today's Buying

Women today do 85% of the buying; make 42% of all income tax returns; inherit 70% of all money and property left by Americans; own 57% of the savings bank deposits; possess 70 to 80% of the nation's wealth; and have their name on 2/3 of all U.S. savings bonds.

Children Share Feelings Through Their Poetry

By NANCY HICKS
Star Women's Editor
The children at Calvert School shared their words with one another Monday.

Being a motorcycle is like a racer and feeling free. Being a U.S.A. or Suzuki or Honda race motor cickle.
Being a flag in a silver Wore (Civil War) shot full of holes every day.

—Richard Schneider

For more than a month children in four Calvert classes have been learning about poetry, writing their own poems. "making some sense out of their lives . . . and feelings," with the help of Lincoln poet, Nancy McCleery.

And Monday, the last of the five Mondays with Mrs. McCleery, they read their poems to friends and parents.

I never felt so mad.
When those Big guys beat me up.
They hit me in the nose.
They hit me in the back.
When my tire busted.
When my bike seat busted.

—Billy Kennedy

The "Poet in the Classroom" program, currently underway at six Lincoln schools, is designed to get students in touch with a poet who is writing and being published.

Under the nationwide program, coordinated in Nebraska by the Nebraska Arts Council and the National Endowment to the Arts, local poets go into the classroom, exposing the children to the sounds, the feelings the pure pleasure of poetry.

The eight Nebraska poets in the program are currently working within the Omaha and Lincoln areas, but "they're trying to move out from the eastern part of the state," said Mrs.
McCleery, the only female poet in the group.

Mrs. McCleery, who is also working with children in the Zeman and Meadowlane Schools, helps the children translate their own feelings into words.

First the children learn of images (pictures). The poems, read Monday by the students, are just rough drafts — spelling has not been corrected, said Mrs. McCleery. But sometimes the misspelling itself adds to the poem.

Lincolmites Respond To The Higer Family

The Lincoln Star has received many responses from persons concerned about the plight of Ann and LeRoy Higer, the low-income family described in an article appearing Monday.

One local citizen, Mrs. Gus Johns Jr. said her heart went out to them. "We have the warmth of our houses, food on our tables and these people have absolutely nothing," she said.

Mrs. John voluntarily decided to head up a drive to collect food, clothing and other necessities for the Higers. She may be contacted at 466-0352.

He Wants Protection Against Gold Digger

DEAR ABBY: I have had lots of problems but I never had one like this, so here goes my first Dear Abby letter.

I am a 57-year-old working man. I lived with my folks most of my life, but they are both dead now, so I'm living alone.

When I was younger I would ask girls for dates, but I got turned down, mostly because I wasn't very good-looking and didn't have much money. Being alone so much caused me to be kind of shy. I never enjoyed being alone, I just got used to it.

Well, I took a chance on the state lottery, and won $100,000. I had never won anything in my life. I still can't believe it, but it is true. Now I've got so many friends (mostly women), I almost have to hide.

I would like some female companionship, but don't want to end up married to some gold-digger. I don't have any experience at all when it comes to judging women, Abby, so how can I protect myself?

E.B. IN ATTLEBORO, MASS

DEAR E.B.: Don't go in for anything as permanent as marriage until you know the woman well enough to trust her completely. Then see a lawyer about a pre-nuptial agreement. (He'll explain it to you.) You took a chance on a lottery and won, and marriage is a bit of a gamble, too, but the better you know the candidate, the smaller the risk.

him a five-minute grace period, then go about her business. If he knows he has to get up — he will. And if he doesn't, let him suffer the consequences.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder how many people realize the difference between the way HER mother is treated and the way HIS mother is treated?

So many young husbands are so busy with earning a living that they leave such matters entirely to their wives, and consequently on Mother's Day HER mother will be honored and when (and if) it's convenient, HIS mother will be honored.

toward her ex-in-laws, and part of the punishment she feels "his family" has coming is depriving them of their grandchildren.

Marriage is Here to Stay—Poll Shows

New York (UPI) — Marriage is here to stay.

A poll shows marriage is changing but that nine out of 10 American women — and men — prefer marriage to any other lifestyle.

The Roper Organization, which conducted the third Virginia Slims American Women's opinion poll, said: "Very few members of either sex want to stay single and alone, or live in a commune, or live with someone of the opposite sex without marrying."

What's more, given a choice, only 2% of the surveyed women would pursue a career rather than marriage and children.

The majority of women, however, prefer combining marriage, children, career.

This fits with their changing attitudes about basic marriage. The Roper Organization said in releasing the report in New York:

"Large numbers favor marriages in which wives and husbands share financial, homemaking and child rearing responsibilities. This is in contrast to the traditional marriage where husband provides support and wife stays home."

Children of these women also are being taught sharing all kinds of work and play and study that once was clearly sex-labeled "his" or "hers".

The majority of women, for example, believe that chores such as lawn-mowing, laundry work and cooking should be done by either boys or girls.

Adults of both sexes approve of boys taking cooking classes and girls learning woodworking. But one in four men think sewing classes for boys are not good.

Nearly one in three women — compared to one in five men — believes that dolls are suitable for boys and girls.

Highlights of the survey also include:

— Nine out of 10 women acknowledge love and communication as fundamental in a good marriage.

— Divorce as a solution to a bad marriage is favored by three out of five women. Furthermore, a majority of women oppose alimony when the woman can earn a reasonable income.

— Women are still trying to come to grips with the new sexual freedom prevalent among unmarried in society today. Approximately two out of five see it as a change for the worse, and nearly an equal number express mixed feelings.

— By nearly three to one women oppose the idea of being paid for a weekly wage for keeping house.

— Four out of five women say the high cost of living has a lot to do with the trend to smaller families. Nearly half of women today think having two children is ideal. Women in prime childbearing years — 18 to 29 — show the least enthusiasm for large families.

Women indicated that they want men to loosen up emotionally. They place high values on such traits as sensitivity and gentleness.

Gallery Is Taking Artist Applications

To promote young artists in the southeast Nebraska Area, Haymarket Art Gallery will sponsor an artist-in-residence program for the year 1975.

Any interested person is welcome to apply for the program, which is supported by grants from the Nebraska Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Arts, Washington, D.C.

The program will provide a rent-free studio in the gallery for one year, a monthly stipend, and a four-week one-person show at Haymarket during the year.

The gallery will require that work produced there be shown exclusively through Haymarket auspices. Commissioned work will be arranged through the gallery, and during the tenure of the contract and for three months thereafter, works by the artist sold in Lancaster County will be subject to the usual Haymarket commission rates.

The artist selected will also be required to teach one three-hour class per week at Haymarket for a maximum of 30 weeks.

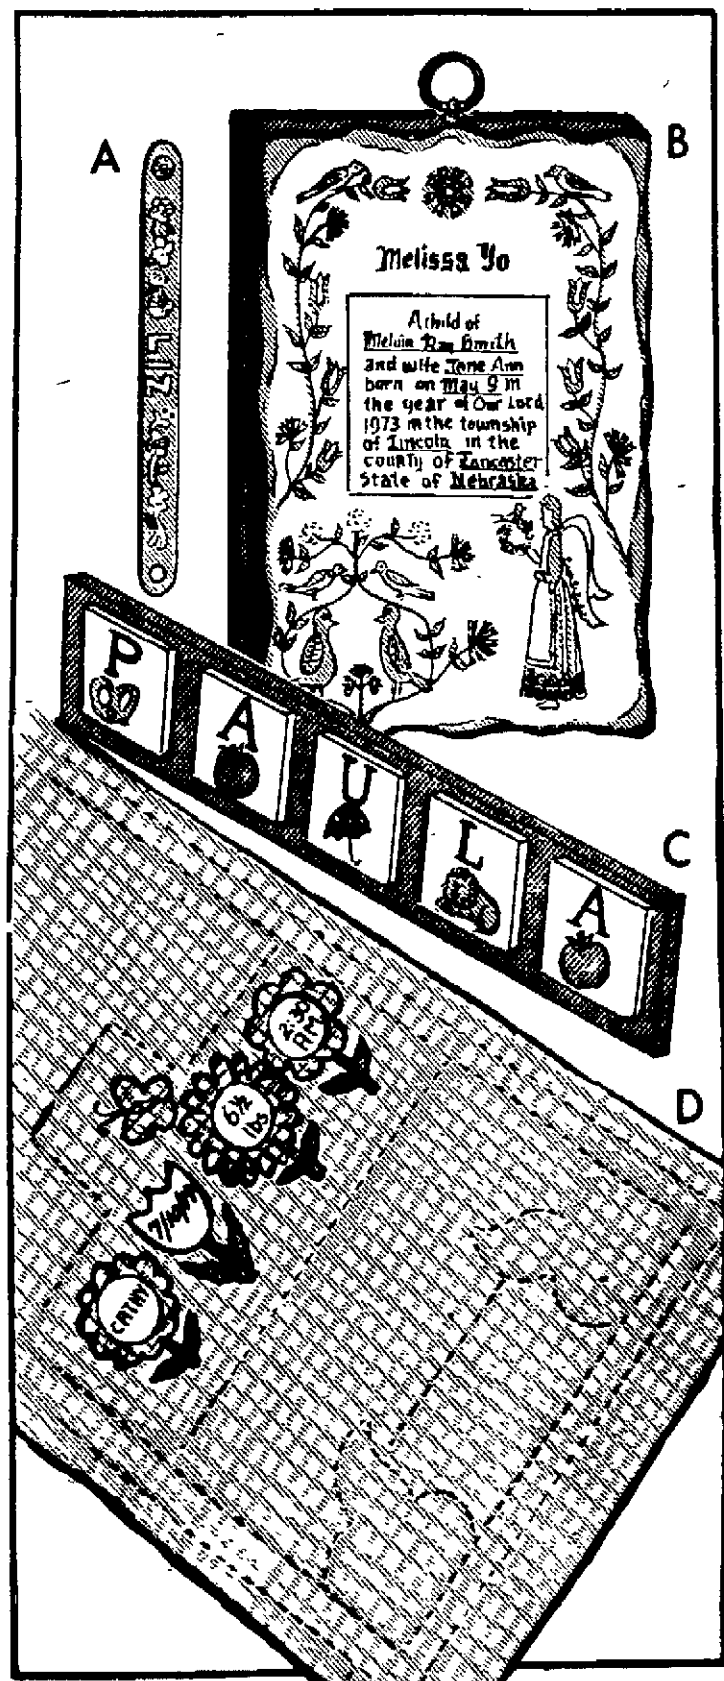

Application blanks can be obtained from Mrs. Harold M. Johnson, Scholarship Chairman, Haymarket Art Gallery, 119 So. 9th, Lincoln, NE 68508. Samples, or slides of work, and application blanks must be returned to the gallery by Dec. 1, 1974; and the winner will be announced on or before Jan. 1, 1975.

Regional TV Status For NU-CU Contest

By BOB OWENS

Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's Cornhuskers, who narrowly avoided the roller-coaster act of early season play by nipping Oklahoma State last Saturday, will appear on regional television Saturday for the second time this season.

Their game at Colorado was one of four picked Monday by ABC-TV for showing to an area that includes all of the far west and the middle west except in the states of Ohio, Michigan and Indiana.

Nebraska's 21-20 loss at Wisconsin was shown to a wide regional audience on Sept. 21 and the Huskers had been tentatively set for the tube against Missouri until the Tigers were bombed by Wisconsin the week before the game.

As a result of the telecast, starting time for the game, originally set for 1:30 p.m., mountain standard time, now will be at noon, Colorado time or 1 p.m., Lincoln time.

Other games to be shown regionally are Auburn at Florida, Maryland at Penn State and Grambling-Texas Southern at the Houston Astrodome.

Tony Davis
Top NU Rusher

The Huskers retained their ninth-place ranking nationally in both the Associated Press and United Press International polls this week.

After almost two months of musical chairs in the ratings, the voters made few changes among the top 20 team after a Saturday of very few surprises.

In the AP list, which is voted by writers, the top ten remained the same, and in UPI, which is a vote of coaches, there was only one newcomer — Florida moving into tenth ahead of Texas, which fell to 11th.

Oklahoma, which is omitted in UPI because of its NCAA probation, gained ground on No. 1 Ohio State in the AP list.

The Buckeyes received 45 first-place votes and 1,222 of a possible 1,260 points while the Sooners earned 14 first-place votes and 1,123 points. Michigan trails OU by 159 points for third spot.

Fullback Tony Davis maintained his ranking as NU's No. 1 ball carrier in statistics released by sports information director Don Bryant. Davis has rushed for 375 yards in 72 attempts for a 5.2-yard average.

Quarterback Dave Humm's completion average dropped slightly to .587 as a result of a .500-day against Oklahoma State.

His career totals inched closer to Jerry Tagge's school records. He now needs to average 15 attempts, 13 completions and 117 yards in the remaining games to become NU's all-time leader in these categories.

Almost unnoticed in the tight finish Saturday was that Humm's streak of 15 consecutive pass completions came to an abrupt halt on his first try against the Cowboys. It was intended for Davis, but overthrown. NU was in motion on the play, but the Cowboys declined the penalty.

Wingback Don Westbrook is the leading receiver with 18 catches and also the leading scorer with 48 points.

Nebraska opponents have scored a mere 59 points this season, but have mustered only seven points in the first three quarters. The Huskers' scoring by quarters is 50-75-60-72 for a 257 total.

Namath Nixes 'Moving' Talk

NEW YORK (AP) — The possibility of Joe Namath, Broadway Joe of the New York Jets, becoming Hollywood Joe of the Los Angeles Rams was tossed around after the two National Football League teams met Sunday.

"I've learned that when you don't have to make a decision, don't," Namath said after the Rams beat the Jets 20-13. "It would be dumb for me to get involved in talk about trades now. Avenues will become available. We'll see."

Namath, a 10-year veteran with the Jets who guided them to a Super Bowl title in 1969, is playing out his option this year. He will be a free agent next year and has expressed a preference to play in a warm climate with a contending team.

"When Joe was at Alabama," said Jim Walsh, Namath's lawyer, "he could run the option better than anybody. He has a lot of options now too."

The Rams, who traded veteran quarterback John Hadl, last year's National Conference Most Valuable Player, to the Green Bay Packers last week, have started young quarterback James Harris the past two games.

Foreman To End Ali's Career?

Kinshasa, Zaire (UPI) — The bludgeoning fists of heavyweight champion George Foreman will strive to still the dancing feet of Muhammad Ali Wednesday at 4 a.m. (9 p.m. CST Tuesday), and thus bring to an end one of boxing's greatest careers.

Foreman, with an awesome 37 knockouts in his unbeaten record of 40 victories, was an 11-5 favorite for the 15-round match in the Stadium of the 20th of May, which is expected to hold about 64,000 Zairians, the majority of whom seem solidly in favor of Ali.

Around the world, in over 100 nations, an estimated million people will see the bout — by closed circuit in the United States, but on home television in many countries. The revenue for pay television is what has made possible 5 million dollar guarantees for each man in a production which carries a price tag of approximately 30 million dollars.

The key to the bizarre drama is Muhammad Ali, the most celebrated and controversial figure in boxing for a dozen years, who now, at age 32, faces the greatest challenge of his life.

Winner of the heavyweight title in February 1964 in a stunning upset over Sonny Liston, Ali, then known as Cassius Clay, subsequently resisted the draft and was stripped of his title. He was idle for over two years, during which time the recognized title passed to Joe Frazier. Ali lost his first chance to regain his crown, bowing in an epic 15-rounder to Frazier in March of 1971.

Frazier later was knocked out in two rounds by Foreman, and then Joe lost a close 12-round decision to Ali in January to set up the bout here.

Ali has had 46 fights, losing only two — the one to Frazier, the other to relatively unknown Ken Norton. Norton broke Ali's jaw in the second round of a 12-rounder which went the distance. Muhammad reversed that verdict in a close rematch with Norton, and then Foreman flattened Norton in two.

But because of his showmanship, his stand on race issues, his religious militancy, Muhammad Ali has become more than a fighter to much of the world. His fights have become "happenings," drawing people who know less than nothing, and care less, about the bawdy old sport of boxing. They come to see and cheer and admire Ali.

Even without a truly powerful punch, he has piled up 31 knockouts, the most notable — but sometimes questioned — a one-punch flooring of Liston in their return match at Lewiston, Me., in 1965.

He is a deceptively big man, standing 6-foot-3 with an 80-inch reach. It is his lightning speed of foot coupled with that reach that made possible the slogan "float like a butterfly, sting like a bee." Ali's jabs do sting.

But, at age 32, the speed and guile may be going, and it is Foreman who may speed them on their way. A huge hulk of a man in appearance, although he is only Ali's height, George possesses the biggest arms since Paul Bunyan. Once he learned to punch straight rather than looping lefts and rights, he began to leave a trail of victims, knocking them down, again and again, until it was all over.

"I like knockouts," Foreman says. "I don't want any one to get hurt. A knockout is nice and peaceful."

A problem as a teenager in his native Houston, Foreman wound up in the Job Corps in California, where he came under the influence of Doc Broadus, the trainer who led him to AAU titles and then the Olympic title in Mexico. There George won the hearts of some Americans by carrying a tiny flag in his huge fist after his victory.

Trained now by Dick Sadler, he has not had anything remotely approaching the popularity of Ali or Frazier. An apparently very much reserved person, although he would like to be more of a public figure, he simply lets his fists do the talking.

HUMMEL-AP

Working To Improve Keeps Johnson Busy

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Suppose you blocked a punt, almost intercepted a pass, broke up a pass at the seven-yard-line with 1:22 left in the game, and recovered a fumble by the opposing quarterback on your team's one yard line. You might be pretty happy.

Ardell Johnson, the 5-10, 180-pound Nebraska cornerback who performed all these feats, replied, "Happy? Yes. Satisfied? No."

"Satisfied is a luxury you can't afford until you're sitting in a rocking chair telling your grandchildren about it," he said.

"You've got to keep working to improve," added the Chillicothe, Mo. native. "You keep working on techniques, and defenses. The big plays just come along with doing the basics."

Johnson, originally a walk-on, is certainly no stranger to the big plays. He was responsible for blocking the extra point last year against Kansas, which preserved a 10-9 Husker victory.

Johnson recovered a fumble by Oklahoma State quarterback Charlie Weatherbie on the Nebraska one-yard-line with 3:22 remaining in the game Saturday at Memorial Stadium. The recovery was probably the key play of the game, which the Huskers won, 7-3.

The "almost interception" Johnson was involved in was controversial simultaneous reception with Oklahoma State's Sam Lisle.

Johnson had inside position on Lisle as the pass from halfback Wes Hawkins came down and appeared to make the interception.

But, as the two fell to the ground, the referee signaled a simultaneous reception, giving the OSU's Lisle the ball.

"Nobody has to coach or teach you how to fall on the ball or intercept a pass," said Johnson. "My kid sister could have fallen on the ball," Johnson said after the game.

"Our primary objective on defense is to get possession of the ball for the offense," Johnson commented.

"My primary job as a defensive back is to defend against the pass and secondarily to support against the run," said Johnson who has tallied 16 tackles, and broken up two passes this season.

"Playing against the wishbone offense offers a special challenge," said Johnson. "We support against the run more than usual because that is what they do the most."

"They try to control the ball and eat up the clock, but by mixing in the pass they offer a threat that can really hurt you."

"Our defensive strategy is to bend and give up a few yards but no touchdowns," adds the NU speedster.

Johnson, who is one of the fastest Huskers, with 4.3 second speed in the 40-yard dash, emphasized improving each week because, "The other team is going to be doing the same thing. Working to improve."

Johnson said Saturday's Nebraska game against Colorado in Boulder will increase the pressure on the NU secondary.

"They will be running out of an I-formation and the slot, which means we will have to be more pass conscious, whereas last week against the wishbone offense of the Cowboys we were more run conscious."

"Playing in Boulder shouldn't be tough because if you just concentrate on the game, the fans can't get to you," said Johnson.

"We try to gear up for plays, not individuals," he said. "If you spent time on individuals, you would be wasting a lot of time, because performances, and personnel change so fast."

"It really doesn't matter how big a guy is but rather how versatile he is, because the well-rounded athlete is more dangerous than one that is limited in performance."

"You have to change your goals as the season goes along, but right now I would like to win the Big Eight. I don't really care about individual statistics, it's the team that counts," Johnson said.

"I also have expectations of getting into law school and that takes a lot of my time," said Johnson. "You just have to learn to budget your time."

Certainly his time on the field has been well spent, as evidenced by last week's game.

The Muhammad Ali-George Foreman heavyweight championship fight will be shown on closed circuit TV in Omaha Tuesday night.

The show, at the Omaha Civic Auditorium, begins at 8:30 (fight time is scheduled for 9 p.m.). Tickets, priced at $15 each, will be available at the door.

Stanley: Loss Heartbreaker

STILLWATER (UPI) — Oklahoma State coach Jim Stanley says his players were hurt deeply by Saturday's 7-3 loss to Nebraska, which Stanley called a "heartbreaker."

"If they had not been hurt I would have been worried," he said.

Fullback George Palmer underwent successful corrective knee surgery Monday for torn ligaments he received in the Nebraska game. He will be unable to play for the rest of the season, Stanley said.

Stanley said he hoped Robert Turner would be ready to play fullback against Kansas Saturday. Turner fractured his ankle in the Baylor game.

He said halfbacks Leonard Thompson or Terry Miller also may move into the spot.

Stanley said Gene Ritz had moved ahead of Mike Kennedy at offensive left guard.

Crete's Frost Praises Kasperek, Norris

By RANDY YORK

Prep Sports Editor

If Crete football coach Larry Frost passed out grades on execution, he'd give Friday opponent Norris an A-plus.

"I've felt this way two years now. Kenny Kasperek's Norris teams execute as well as any we've played," offers Frost.

"They run a pretty basic formation. In fact, some of it's older than I am. I'd never seen an unbalanced line," admits Frost, whose fourth-rated Cardinals play unranked, but unbeaten Norris Friday at Fifth.

"Execution is what they do best. Very seldom will Norris miscue," according to Frost. "So, if you're going to beat 'em, you have to beat 'em physically. You can't figure on getting the break."

"I have a lot of respect for Ken Kasperek's coaching ability," adds Frost. "I just hope that I have a coaching record like his someday."

Kasperek has a career prep coaching record of 125-7-4. This year's Norris outfit, which faced a big rebuilding job after last year's Capital Conference championship effort, has gone 7-0-1.

The tie was against 10th-ranked Waverly. The Titans have shown excellent week-by-week improvement and figure prominently in a tightly-bunched field of Class B ratings candidates.

Although Norris' development this season has been a team effort, Frost points to senior Dan Schaepe as the key to the fast start.

"I think Norris has him listed at 182 pounds in the program," notes Frost. "But I wonder when they weighed him last. He looks a lot bigger to me."

Schaepe is the Titans' fullback and leading tackler at linebacker.

"He does the job from sideline to sideline," Frost says of Schaepe after scouting Norris twice this season. "We're going to have to get to him if we expect to move the ball."

Norris is hoping to avoid a let-

Frost, "a loss isn't likely to knock either team out of the ratings."

Norris fans are expecting to use the battle as the key to get in.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

By Randy York

Class B

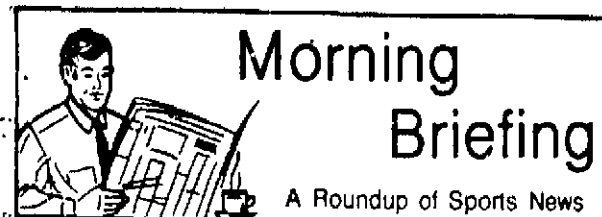

- 1—Ord (8-0)
- 2—Lincoln Pius X (7-1)
- 3—Central City (7-1)
- 4—Crete (5-2)
- 5—Wayne (6-0)
- 6—Fremont Bergan (7-1)
- 7—Columbus Scotus (6-2)
- 8—David City Aquinas (6-2)
- 9—Omaha Holy Name (6-2)
- 10—Waverly (6-2)

Comment — Pius X intensified its No. 1 bid with 34-13 handling of Omaha Gross, marking the Thunderbolts' fourth win over a Class A opponent this season. Lexington (6-2), Minden (6-2) and Norris (7-0-1) just mussed top 10 berths as ratings undergo major shakeup, caused by Columbus Scotus' 6-0 win over David City Aquinas. This week's schedule sends No. 1 Ord to Lexington, Minden to No. 3 Central City and No. 4 Crete to Norris.

Class C

- 1—Scribner (8-0)
- 2—Grant (7-0)
- 3—Louisville (7-0)
- 4—Cambridge (7-0)
- 5—Wymore Southern (4-2)
- 6—Raymond Central (4-3)
- 7—Hebron (6-2)
- 8—Alma (8-0)
- 9—Hastings St. Cecilia (6-2)
- 10—Hay Springs (7-1)

Comment — Scribner's power will be critically tested Friday when it hosts Class B's ninth-rated Omaha Holy Name (6-2). Scribner has outscored eight opponents by the combined score of 317-13. Hastings St. Cecilia returns to ratings and Hay Springs makes first appearance as Madison and Bridgeport exit following losses.

A Roundup of Sports News

FOOTBALL

Mike Ernst, a reserve quarterback for the Cincinnati Bengals, has been charged with possession of narcotics, police said Monday.

The Bengals waived Ernst just a few hours after he was arrested. Tight end Bob Windsor, who caught the game-winning pass Sunday to give the New England Patriots a 17-14 victory over the Minnesota Vikings, injured his right knee on the play and could be out for the remainder of the season.

Running back Rod McNeil and safety Jerry Moore suffered hamstring pulls in the New Orleans Saints' victory over the Philadelphia Eagles and were listed Monday as doubtful for this week's game against Detroit.

Harry Smith, a Missouri assistant football coach for 20 years and now assistant professor of health and physical education and men's intramurals director at the school, will be inducted into the Missouri Sports Hall of Fame Nov. 23.

Virginia quarterback Scott Gardner, who led the nation in total offense last week, underwent surgery Monday, to relieve pressure on a muscle in the lower right leg.

BASEBALL

The Pittsburgh Pirates announced Monday that pitchers Ken Brett and Dave Giusti will undergo operations for the removal of small bone chips from their pitching arms in the next few weeks.

Home run king Hank Aaron will receive the Multiple Sclerosis Silver Hope Chest Award at the annual Dinner of Champions of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society and the New York Country chapter Tuesday night.

The New York Mets are finding life just as tough in the Orient as it was for them in the National League last season, settling for a 4-4 tie in 10 innings against the Yomiuri Giants Monday.

Los Angeles Dodgers' outfielder Jimmy Wynn, shortstop Bill Russell and coach Tom Lasorda are all scheduled for surgery this week, according to the team.

BASKETBALL

Veteran guard Milt Williams was placed on waivers Monday by the Spirits of St. Louis, reducing the ABA team's roster to 10 players.

Dave Stallworth, a 6-7 forward who recovered from a 1967 heart attack and led the New York Knicks to the NBA championship in 1970, rejoined the team as a free agent Monday.

The New York Knicks Monday activated Howard Porter, the 6-foot-8 forward acquired from the Chicago Bulls in exchange for the Knicks' first draft choice at the end of last season.

Hoping to fill the void left by an injury to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the Milwaukee Bucks signed veteran center Bob Rule on Monday.

OTHER SPORTS

Top-seeded Arthur Ashe and three other Americans were among first-round winners Monday in the $54,000 Paris Open Indoor Tennis Tournament.

John Newcombe of Australia, a three-time Wimbledon champion, heads a list of eight seeded players in the $50,000 Wicor Tennis Classic scheduled in Hong Kong Nov. 5-10.

Chris Evert and Evonne Goolagong will open the $40,000 World Invitational Tennis Classic in Hilton Head, S.C., Tuesday.

Stan Smith and Billie Jean King will play Bjorn Borg and Virginia Wade in the first mixed doubles match.

Australian Ted Ball moved past South African Gary Player and captured his second consecutive Wills Masters Golf Tournament title in Sydney Sunday.

The second Diamondhead Cup golf match between United States and British club professionals starts Tuesday at the Pinehurst Country Club.

Japan's Kosaku Shimada fired a one-under-par 71 and held off countryman Teruo Sugihara and 1974 U.S. PGA Champion Lee Trevino to capture the $133,000 Tokai Classic golf tournament Sunday with a 12-under-par 276.

Veteran Phil Roberto, sidelined at the season's start by injuries, was sent Monday by the St. Louis Blues of the NHL to their Denver Spurs farm club at his own request.

Attorneys asking for a new murder trial for former boxer "Rubin" Hurricane Carter have prepared subpoenas for 80 witnesses and are ready to begin "immediately," a spokesman said Monday.

At least 15 persons were arrested, seven injured and one seriously wounded Sunday in disturbances during a junior soccer game in Salta, Argentina.

In what the U.S. Auto Club terms a test case for possible engine adjustments, six Formula 5000 cars have been added to the field of Indy-type cars for the Arizona 150 Saturday.

Lafit Pincay, the nation's leading money-winning jockey for the past four years, may abandon plans to set a record for earnings in 1974, due to a weight problem.

Judicial proceedings are underway against World Middleweight boxing champion Carlos Monzon on a complaint from his wife that he hit her during an argument in a bar, police said Monday.

The chairman of the Lake Placid Olympic Committee, The Rev. J. Bernard Fell, said Monday he had total faith that the federal and state governments would appropriate up to $35 million to allow this Adirondack Mountain village to stage the 1980 Winter Olympics.

A spokesman for the Midwest Coliseum, the $20 million edifice built in a suburb of Cleveland by sports entrepreneur Nick Mileti, said Monday its ice-making system was back in business. The system failed in its initial use and the hockey game between the Cleveland Crusaders and the Toronto Toros was indefinitely postponed.

Pat Costello of Oklahoma City captured the $30,000 Canton Classic bowling tournament Sunday night by averaging 238 for the 18-game finals.

Desert Vixen, the top U.S. performer among fillies and mares, was entered Monday for the $150,000 Washington, D.C. International, where she will face the favored French filly, Dahlia, on Nov. 9.

Increasing Attendance

What can Nebraska race tracks do to combat the problem of a rapidly increasing mutual handle with a slight rise in attendance?

That's the question the track managers and the members of the Nebraska State Racing Commission would do well to consider next Monday and Tuesday at their annual fall meeting in Omaha. It's a question, however, that may not hold any definite answers.

"It's not just a problem with Nebraska... It's a national problem and it's been the pattern all over the country," said Stan Bowker, Ak-Sar-Ben's director of member activities. "Sure, we're concerned about it and we've got several ideas that will help attendance. It's something all tracks are worried about."

Omaha's mutual handle this year rose significantly from 1973 — up 13.55%. The attendance increased from a daily average of 14,585 to 14,937 or 2.41%.

That's been the pattern at all the race meets in Nebraska this year. Some have shown higher increases in mutual handle, but none has experienced a major attendance hike. And that indicates something is wrong.

On a national level, thoroughbred horse racing does the worst — bar none — job of any major sport of promoting itself.

Only five horses of the more than 64,000 run this year on the North American continent were televised nationally. Whether the television networks frowned on the idea or the tracks were lax in promoting their product, the fact remains that on any given Sunday it is possible to watch that many football games on television.

Other Reasons

Not that televising horse races is the only answer, but it indicates that while other major sports have organized and helpful publicity departments, it is generally true that horse racing publicity is disorganized and unresponsive to requests for help. All of which indicates that horse racing must attract new fans on both the national and local levels.

Nebraska tracks have tried by starting the races later in the afternoon. Atokad general manager Harold Smock moved his first post from early afternoon to 3:30 and attendance and handle mutual handle both noted healthy gains.

One item which would help in Nebraska is to have morning "breakfasts" such as other major tracks hold. That way fans could watch the morning workouts and listen to track officials and jockeys and ask questions. There's no reason why things like that couldn't be held at each of the tracks in Nebraska.

Another problem is the rising cost of attending the races. "In this area of inflation there is a natural tendency to raise prices," said Bowker. "We have to keep our product reasonably in line so we don't price the average fan out."

He's entirely correct. Yet horse racing in Nebraska is still a bargain in Nebraska — especially at the state's major track (Ak-Sar-Ben).

That's another area that should be promoted better. It's an excellent way to spend an afternoon and it need not require a king's ransom to watch the races.

While allotting dates for next season, trying to increase the attendance is one area the Commission should investigate at next week's meetings. Racing needs people... without them... the sport is in serious trouble.

Missouri's Galbreath Honored

Kansas City (AP) — "Tony Galbreath ran over us, through us, around us, anyway you want to say it."

This, in a nutshell, is the way Colorado coach Bill Mallory summed up the performance of tailback Tony Galbreath in Missouri's 30-24 football victory over the Buffs last Saturday.

As a result of this performance, Galbreath, a junior college transfer, was selected unanimously Monday the Big Eight Conference offensive player of the week by a panel of sports writers.

"It was one of the best efforts I've seen... just plain determination," Mallory added.

Galbreath made three touchdowns against the Buffs and accounted for all of the 80 yards that produced the Tigers' final and winning touchdown.

Galbreath's 36-yard run which ended the 80-yard drive in the fourth quarter was a dazzler that had both Mallory and Missouri Coach Al Onofrio still buzzing some 48 hours later.

Mallory said Galbreath's reception of a 22-yard pass on third down and 10 yards to go for a first down and 10 yards to go for a first down that started the Tigers on their way to the winning touchdown was the game's turning point.

After the pass catch, Galbreath carried the ball three consecutive times. On his 35-yard touchdown burst, he broke five tackles, the last at the Colorado three just before he lunged into the end zone.

Galbreath, after the Buffs went ahead 10-0, put the Bengals out front with touchdown romps of four and 14 yards. He rushed 23 times for 146 yards and caught four passes for 59 yards.

"That 36-yard run was the best I've ever seen," said Onofrio. "I think Tony earned that offensive player award. He's a strong runner... has a great attitude. He's a dedicated player."

Galbreath had little to say about his performance.

Others nominated were George Palmer of Oklahoma State, Leon White of Colorado, Bill Campfield of Kansas, Tony Davis of Nebraska and Steve Davis of Oklahoma.

Leading Passer Out For Season

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Steve Myer, the nation's No. 1 passer, has been lost to the New Mexico Lobos for the remainder of the season, UNM athletic officials said Monday.

Myer will undergo surgery Tuesday for torn knee ligaments, a UNM spokesman said.

The 6-2, 185-pound quarterback injured his knee two weeks ago in a 32-21 win over Wyoming. It was first believed to be a minor twist and Myer was expected to play last Saturday against Arizona State. However, he sat on the sidelines and doctors diagnosed the injury as torn ligaments Monday.

Myer, who joined the Lobos this season after transferring from Mt. San Antonio Junior College in Walnut, Calif., was the nation's top passer the past four weeks.

In six games, Myer completed 106 of 196 passes for 1,103 yards and seven touchdowns.

Blazer Order: Find Buyer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A circuit judge Monday ordered the Florida Blazers of the World Football League to come up with a contracted buyer for the team within 10 days or face an indefinite order not to sell.

In addition, Orange County Judge Claude Edwards ordered Blazer backer David Williams Jr. to post a $500,000 bond with the court by noon Tuesday.

Williams won a temporary restraining order last Wednesday halting sale of the team to undisclosed buyers for a reported $1.5 million.

The restraining order will be automatically lifted if the bond to insure payment of players' salaries and other debts is not posted, Edwards said. Players are owed several weeks back pay.

If the both the Blazers and Williams meet the court's provisions, Edwards said he would hold more hearings on possible sale of the team.

Williams and Blazer managing partner Rommie Loudd have sued each other and the WFL. Williams and Loudd each claim the other conspired with the league to drive the team into financial difficulty to force its sale.

Williams, a limited partner in the team who says he has $1 million invested, claims the league stands to make $300,000 from a sale. He says Loudd and the league were trying to sell the team without his knowledge or consent.

Team players and the WFL had asked the judge to order Williams to post a high bond, saying they wanted to insure salary would be paid and other debts against the team would be settled if Williams won a permanent restraining order.

PANHANDLE
Turkey hunters report mixed success over the weekend. Chadron check stations recorded 137 birds. Crawford, 156; Rushville, 118; and Harrison, 21. As of Saturday evening, Fishermen are taking a few rainbow trout on creeks in the Scottsbluff area using worms and trout eggs for bait.

SANDHILLS
Officers report 86 turkeys checked at Bassett and 64 birds at Ainsworth. Waterfowl have apparently moved out of the area, with only small numbers of mallards and other ducks remaining on area waters.

SOUTHWEST
Fishermen are taking some white bass to 10 inches on artificials at Johnson Lake, and new flights of ducks have been observed moving into the Embury and Sanderson reservoirs. Fishermen are taking a few rainbow trout on creeks in the Scottsbluff area using worms and trout eggs for bait.

SOUTHWEST
Waterfowl hunting is still slow on the Platte River in Merrick and Hall counties. Officers report the crop hunters are taking a few mallards. Sevier hunters are having good success along the Blue River and creeks in York, Fillmore and Hamilton counties.

SOUTHWEST
Waterfowl hunting on Lewis and Clark is slow with only two flocks of geese sighted over the weekend. Fishermen are taking a few rainbow trout to 25 pounds at Gavins Point Dam.

Cipriano Hosts Cage Clinic

A basketball clinic for third through sixth grade boys and girls will be held at the University of Nebraska-Columbus this Saturday at 9:30 a.m.

The clinic will be hosted by the UN-L varsity basketball team and coaches Joe Cipriano, Moe Iba and Lemmy Porter.

Mallory Hopes Colorado Can 'Toughen Up' For NU

From News Wires

Colorado coach Bill Mallory was upset, to put it mildly, at his team's performance in losing to Missouri 30-24 Saturday.

"We've got to get tougher," Mallory said Monday. "We're not a tough, hard-nosed outfit. We play the game too nice."

The Buffs host Nebraska this Saturday in a game that will be regionally televised with the kickoff at one o'clock CST. Mallory promised the players that this week's practice will be especially brutal to prepare for the Cornhuskers.

"We're just going to get at it in practice. We have to get this thing corrected. We need people who'll hammer away for 60 minutes, rather than play in spurts as we've been doing."

This week, the Iowa State Cyclones prepare for their home tilt with Oklahoma.

"Oklahoma is simply outstanding," coach Earl Bruce said after watching films of the nation's No. 1 offensive team. "They're a big play type team, easily the most explosive I've ever seen."

Iowa State is coming off a 22-6 victory over Kansas.

Missouri coach Al Onofrio was bemoaning the loss of fullback Ray Bybee Monday as the Tigers went through a one-hour workout.

"Just when we had the kind of combination we wanted with Bybee and Tony Galbreath, then one of them gets hurt," Onofrio said.

Bybee, a senior, broke four ankle bones in last Saturday's victory against over Colorado and his collegiate career is over.

Missouri plays Kansas State Saturday.

Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer said the key to the Sooners' phenomenal success in recent years doesn't appear in the record books.

"The most important statistic for us in the last two years has been no injuries to key players," Switzer said.

"It's been remarkable that we've never had an injury that affected the performance of our football team," Switzer said.

One key Sooner, quarterback Steve Davis, did get banged up in Oklahoma's 63-0 whitewash of Kansas State. Davis suffered a shoulder bruise, but Switzer left no doubt he would start Saturday against Iowa State.

Elsewhere in the Big Eight, Kansas coach Don Fambrough was concerned with the mounting injury list, which now includes three starters.

"Our condition is not good, although by Saturday it could be significantly better," Fambrough said.

Quarterback Scott McMichael, running back Robert Miller and defensive end Les Barnes are all out.

The Jayhawks play Oklahoma State at Stillwater Saturday.

At Kansas State, Vince Gibson predicted the Wildcats "have a chance against Missouri Saturday" even though his team is still feeling the effects of the 63-0 beating Oklahoma handed it last week.

"They have an up week, then a down week," Gibson said of Missouri. "This is their week to be down. We've thought about that."

Husker Crew Tenth

Boston — Nebraska's eight-oared entry in the Head of the Charles Regatta finished 10th in a 54-team field in the three-mile race here Sunday.

In a close and driving finish, the Cornhusker crew were less than a shell length behind fifth-place Brown. Syracuse was the winner, but Nebraska topped such prestigious entries as Princeton and Rutgers.

The Head of the Charles, called the Rose Bowl of rowing, attracted 590 boats in 17 events, ranging from single scullers, pairs and doubles to the eight-oared shells. Race officials said Nebraska traveled the farthest of any team entry.

A total of 2,590 oarsmen, representing 120 rowing clubs, colleges and universities were on hand.

For the first time, the Cornhusker rowing club also had an entry in the lightweight 4s with coxswain. Harvard won that race, while Nebraska finished 20th in a field of 34 teams.

"The heavyweight eights, the event in which Nebraska was tenth had the cream of the colleges in the race," a spokesman for the sponsoring Cambridge Boat Club said. "Nebraska should be very proud of its finish. They were less than 25 seconds behind the winner."

Weeping Water Gains In Meet

Stella — Palmyra and Weeping Water advanced to the semifinals in the Galaxy Conference volleyball tournament Monday at Southeast Consolidated High School.

Palmyra topped Louisville, 15-8, 15-0, while Weeping Water downed Nemaha Valley, 15-9, 15-5. Other teams advancing to the semifinals slated Wednesday were: Elmwood over Bennington, 15-9, 18-16; and SE. Consolidated over Humboldt, 15-12, 15-9.

TCU Player's Spirits Up

Birmingham, Ala. (UPI) — Doctors said Monday paralyzed Texas Christian University running back Kent Waldrep had more sensation to touch, but that he had no more "motor power" than before his surgery Saturday night.

Waldrep, 20, was injured in Saturday's 41-3 TCU loss to Alabama Saturday. He landed on his head after being tackled in the second quarter and was instantly paralyzed from the neck down.

A spokesman at the University of Alabama Medical Center said Waldrep's

U.S. Stockpiling Of Food Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government should "assume the principal responsibility" for creating a food reserve as a buffer against world hunger and depressed prices for U.S. farmers, the Committee for Economic Development said Monday.

"Such a policy is urgently needed to enable the nation to cope effectively with the short-term consequences of poor harvests here or abroad," the committee said.

A government-planned reserve of key commodities also would help insure relatively stable food prices for American consumers, the CED said in a 66-page statement.

The report, "A New U.S. Farm Policy for Changing World Food Needs," was prepared by a CED subcommittee headed by John H. Daniels, chairman of Independent Bancorporation, Minneapolis, Minn.

No formal U.S. food reserve policy exists now, although some members of Congress and others have urged that stockpiles be accumulated for use in times of scarcity. The CED report made no estimate of how much might be needed but stressed that the first step must involve policy changes.

The report came as the United States prepared for a United Nations world food conference which begins in Rome next week. The delegation will be led by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz who has said U.S. food reserves should be left in the hands of farmers and the private trade.

Workers To Be Cut
Dallas (AP) — Texas Instruments will cut its work force by 2,500 to 3,000 employees beyond its normal attrition during the last quarter of 1974, according to a quarterly report to stockholders.

Earl L. Butz

Increased Production Said Vital

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz said Monday he would stress the Ford administration's commitment to increased food production to other nations at the World Food Conference beginning next week.

However, Butz told a gathering of frozen food industry executives here that he was worried the conference Nov. 5-16 in Rome would spend too much time on "how to divide up what we've got" rather than how to increase production.

"We've got to increase production, and you do it through incentives," the secretary said at the annual meeting of the American Frozen Food Institute, a trade group.

The secretary said the goal of full production was a complete turnaround from past policies favoring price supports to farmers for not producing feed grains and other commodities.

Since he took over as secretary three years ago, Butz said, government payouts to farmers have dropped from about $4 billion a year to "something under" a half-billion dollars a year.

But the secretary could give no encouragement to the consumer about prices, suggesting that as long as there was rising inflation, food prices would continue to increase.

He said cutting exports would reduce prices in the short term but not in the long run.

Lincoln, Omaha VA Hospitals Rate High

Omaha (AP) — The director of the Veterans Administration's 25th Medical District says VA hospitals in Omaha and Lincoln were found to be in "pretty good shape" by inspectors.

Samuel Birdzell said the two hospitals do not have as severe problems as many others included in a survey that turned up staffing and space deficiencies and confusing eligibility laws.

Birdzell, director of Omaha's VA hospital and head of the South Dakota-Iowa-Nebraska medical district, added, however, that Omaha's hospital is "beginning to feel the pinch" of a $36,000 ceiling on doctors' salaries. And, he said, it is suffering from some space limitations.

Birdzell said the two Nebraska hospitals were among 30 of the country's 171 VA hospitals surveyed. The state's third VA facility in Grand Island was not included.

The survey was conducted by physicians from medical schools and VA hospitals.

The study found that doctors sometimes balk at the $36,000 maximum annual salary because they can make more in private practice, but said it uncovered no case in which a patient's life was jeopardized by lack of care.

In Omaha, Birdzell said, it is "becoming difficult" to recruit doctors in specialized fields, specifically radiology, for the $36,000 salary.

He said the problem does not exist in Lincoln to the extent it does in Omaha because "their mission is not as extensive as ours."

Referring to space problems, Birdzell said: "Any hospital designed in 1948 and built in 1952 is bound to be crowded by today's standards."

The opening, soon, of a research building will give the Omaha facility 40,000 additional square feet, Birdzell said, and will relieve some of the cramped conditions endured by the hospital's average daily load of 335 persons.

Birdzell said he has "never experienced any problem" with eligibility rules for patients.

"Anyone who served almost any time is eligible to varying degrees for treatment at a VA hospital," he said.

He endorsed the survey's proposals to increase the $36,000 doctor salary and award bonuses of up to 25% of the annual salary of doctors and nurses.

U.S. Marshal To Retire

Omaha (AP) — Nebraska's U.S. marshal, disabled during the 1973 Wounded Knee, S.D., disorders, will retire on permanent disability Friday.

Lloyd Grimm, 57, has been confined to a wheelchair since he was shot in the spine while on an inspection trip at a government roadblock April 26, 1973.

The marshal has visited his office only periodically since the shooting. Most of his time has been spent in the Craig Rehabilitation Center at Englewood, Colo., a Denver suburb.

Sens. Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis have announced they have several persons under consideration to succeed Grimm, who was appointed marshal for Nebraska in November 1968, by former President Nixon.

Hruska said the appointment, which will be an interim one, will be discussed with the chief marshal in Washington, U.S. Dist. Atty. William K. Schaphorst and Warren Urbom, presiding judge of the U.S. District Court.

Balfour Withdraws

London (UPI) — Neil Balfour, whose wife plans to marry actor Richard Burton, has withdrawn as a parliamentary candidate in any future election, a Conservative Party official said.

Blair Policeman Is Abducted; 2 Men Sought

Blair (AP) — A widespread search has failed to locate two suspects in connection with the abduction of a Blair police officer and the taking of his cruiser car.

Patrolman William Schnur was flagged down about midnight Sunday by a man who said he wanted to file a complaint about a theft. While the two talked, Schnur said a second man approached and put a gun in his back.

The pair jumped into the police cruiser, forcing Schnur to accompany them, and drove south of Blair about three miles. Schnur said he was pushed out of the car, the men taking his service revolver.

Schnur walked to a farm home, where he obtained help.

Dentists Win

Four dentists received service and teaching awards from the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry Alumni Association in ceremonies related to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Homecoming.

Dr. Norman C. Carson of Lincoln received a Dentistry Alumni's Distinguished Service Award. Dr. R. Larry Lytle of Rapid City, S.D., received a Special Service Award for service to the community during the 1972 floods in Rapid City.

Barbed Wire Groups Elects Tom Martins

Columbus (AP) — Tom Martins of Columbus is the new president of the Nebraska Barbed Wire Assn.

Martins was elected at the organization's weekend fall meeting here.

William Evans of Mullen won exhibit competition in the senior division. Deb Stethen of Ord won the junior division.

The group's spring session will be held in McCook.

UNL Awards For Service

Dr. Stanton D. Harn, assistant professor in the department of oral biology at the NU College of dentistry, received the Outstan-

By United Press International
The chairman of the Nebraska Republican Party, Bill Barrett of Lexington, said Monday he thinks in the closing days of this year's campaign Republican interest is picking up.

Earlier, Barrett said, there was a "lot of apathy, disenchantment and so forth." But he said he feels that is now changing.

As to the chances of Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings and Mrs. Anne Batchelder of Omaha in the race against incumbent Democratic Gov. J. J. Exon and his running mate, Gerald Whelan of Hastings, Barrett said there's been a change there too.

"That's been an uphill battle, but I think there's been a decided change," he said.

In the last few weeks, he said

Marvel and Mrs. Batchelder have "been coming on strong."

Dick White, the chairman of the Nebraska Democratic Party, was also asked for his assessment of the situation.

"All in all, I see a good Democratic year," White said.

He said for the first time in years the candidates are about evenly matched in terms of financing and with the latest registration figures, there's about an even match in voter potential.

He said he and other party members are "very proud of the gains in the Democratic registration across the state."

In the latest registration tallies provided by the secretary of state's office, there were 386,109 Republicans compared with 304,410 Democrats.

That compares with 304,100 Republicans registered for the primary and 362,468 Democrats.

Independents, however, also posted a slight gain with 37,227 registered for the Nov. 5 general election compared with 36,839 registered for the primary.

Total registrations, pending a final figure from Jefferson County, included 787,738 Nebraskans registered to vote on Nov. 5.

Chambers Would End Lease

Kearney (AP)—State Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, the independent candidate for governor, says that come January, he will work to see that a controversial state lease with an Omaha firm is canceled.

Chambers was commenting on the State Labor Department's lease with the JADO Investment Co., of Omaha. The lease is for a three-story office building in Omaha, and has come under fire by Republicans who claim the lease was a political payoff by Gov. J. James Exon.

One of the co-owners in JADO, Michael Jackson, was very active in Exon's 1970 campaign.

Chambers is presently running as a Democrat for the Douglas County Board.

As governor, or as a state senator, Chambers pledged Monday to at least get the lease canceled by stopping the legislative appropriation for the rental payments.

Last week, Atty Gen. Clarence Meyer said such a step could legally be taken to terminate the agreement.

Chambers said the JADO building is poorly located, and noted that the loan obtained to construct the building was actually in excess of construction cost.

Chambers added that the JADO lease is the most expensive in state government.

"Anyone would have to feel that the governor (Exon) and this individual (Jackson) got caught with their hands in the cookie jar," Chambers said.

Slain Omahan's Brother, 71, Beaten, Robbed

Omaha (AP) — Alfred Spracklin, 71-year-old brother of a man who was fatally wounded last summer while resisting two holdup men, was thrown from his wheelchair, beaten and robbed by two men Sunday night.

Spracklin told police two men came to his home and forced their way in when he opened the door.

Spracklin's brother, Saul, was shot during a July 22 robbery of a downtown Omaha parking lot and died Aug. 20.

Detective Robert Frisby said two men, believed to be in their 20s, tipped Spracklin out of his wheelchair, kicked him in the face and body, then took $25, a gun and some food from the refrigerator.

Frisby said Spracklin was finally able to crawl to a telephone and call police. He was reported in fair condition at an Omaha hospital Monday.

Clean-Up Slated For Near South

Citizens for Environmental Improvement (CEI) will pick up recyclable materials in the Near South Neighborhood Association area Saturday.

Scheduled to coincide with the neighborhood group's clean-up campaign, CEI will pick up newspapers, tin cans, aluminum and plastic containers. Persons in the area are urged to place their recyclable materials at their curbs by 9 a.m.

White: Curtis Covering Up Own Financial Shell Game

Democratic State Chairman Dick White Monday night charged that Sen. Carl Curtis has been "bluffing the people of Nebraska" about alleged illegal Democratic money to "cover up his own financial shell game."

"I asked Senator Curtis to furnish to the enforcing authorities any information he had about illegal Democratic money, and he did not because he had no information," White said in a speech at Central City.

"Worse, the record now shows that Curtis and Congressmen Thone and McCollister have all washed money into Nebraska from the milk producers fund and construction interests by using a local address for out-of-state organizations.

"Clearly, this is not only illegal but smacks of Nixon-Agnew techniques of the last election."

Thone Supports Better Benefits To Vietnam Vets

Rep. Charles Thone Monday announced that he would vote to override a possible presidential veto of the new bill to improve educational benefits for veterans.

Ford has not yet announced whether he will sign the bill into law.

"Veterans of Vietnam must not be treated in a manner inferior to those of World War II and Korea," Thone said in a Veterans Day speech at the Lincoln Veterans Hospital.

"I will vote to provide benefits equal to those veterans of earlier wars received."

Shooting Death Thought Suicide

The death of Lynn Peckham, 20, of Bennet, due to a gunshot wound to the head has been ruled an apparent suicide, according to the Lancaster County sheriff's office.

According to sheriff's reports, Peckham's mother discovered his body in his bedroom in the family's home. A .22 caliber pistol was found nearby.

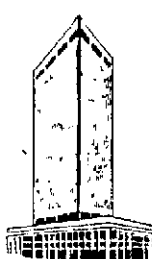

Soviets Buy Hides

Buenos Aires, Argentina (AP) — Uruguay sold the Soviet Union more than $10 million worth of hides and wool, to be shipped over the next two months, local trade sources said.

DO YOU WANT A "VETO-PROOF" CONGRESS? Think about it...

If the American people permit George Meany to achieve his "veto-proof" Congress, voters will have bought a pig in a poke, a new nationwide survey reveals.

A "veto-proof" Congress (one having a two-thirds majority controlled by Big Labor) would enact many new special interest laws adding further to the already enormous power of union officials.

"Veto-Proof" Legislation

The "veto-proof" Congress sought by George Meany and his cohorts would extend compulsory unionism to the majority of workers in all 50 states, thus allowing union officials to spend even more of their members' dues for political campaigns.

Such action would run directly counter to the wishes of most Americans, according to the latest Opinion Research Corporation Caravan Survey. The new survey shows that some 70% or more of the American voting-age public—that's 95 million people—favor voluntary unionism, favor curbs on union political spending, and think union officials already have too much power.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE AND BIG LABOR

... By a margin of nearly four-to-one (70% vs. 19%), Americans think there is "too much power concentrated in the hands of labor leaders of the big unions in this country." This opinion is held by 76% of high school graduates, 69% of mid-income Americans, 60% of union members and 75% of the "thought leaders" in the country.

... By a margin of more than six-to-one (79% vs. 12%), Americans feel union officials should not be permitted to use compulsory union dues and fees "to campaign for political candidates." This opinion is held by 78% of all union members, 83% of those who live in the Northeast, 75% of the nation's Democrats and 85% of the Republicans.

... By a margin of more than two-to-one (68% vs. 27%), American voters feel every citizen should be able to "hold a job whether or not he belongs to a union."

... By a margin of more than six-to-one (74% vs. 11%), American voters feel that Congress should not repeal Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, which gives states the authority to ban compulsory unionism. This opinion is held by 78% of those 18-29 years of age, 78% of high school graduates, and 69% of union members.

The margins in favor of voluntarism in this 1974 ORC survey are larger than ever but the results are consistent with previous findings and supported by every state and national study of Right to Work opinion ever conducted by any reputable opinion research organization.

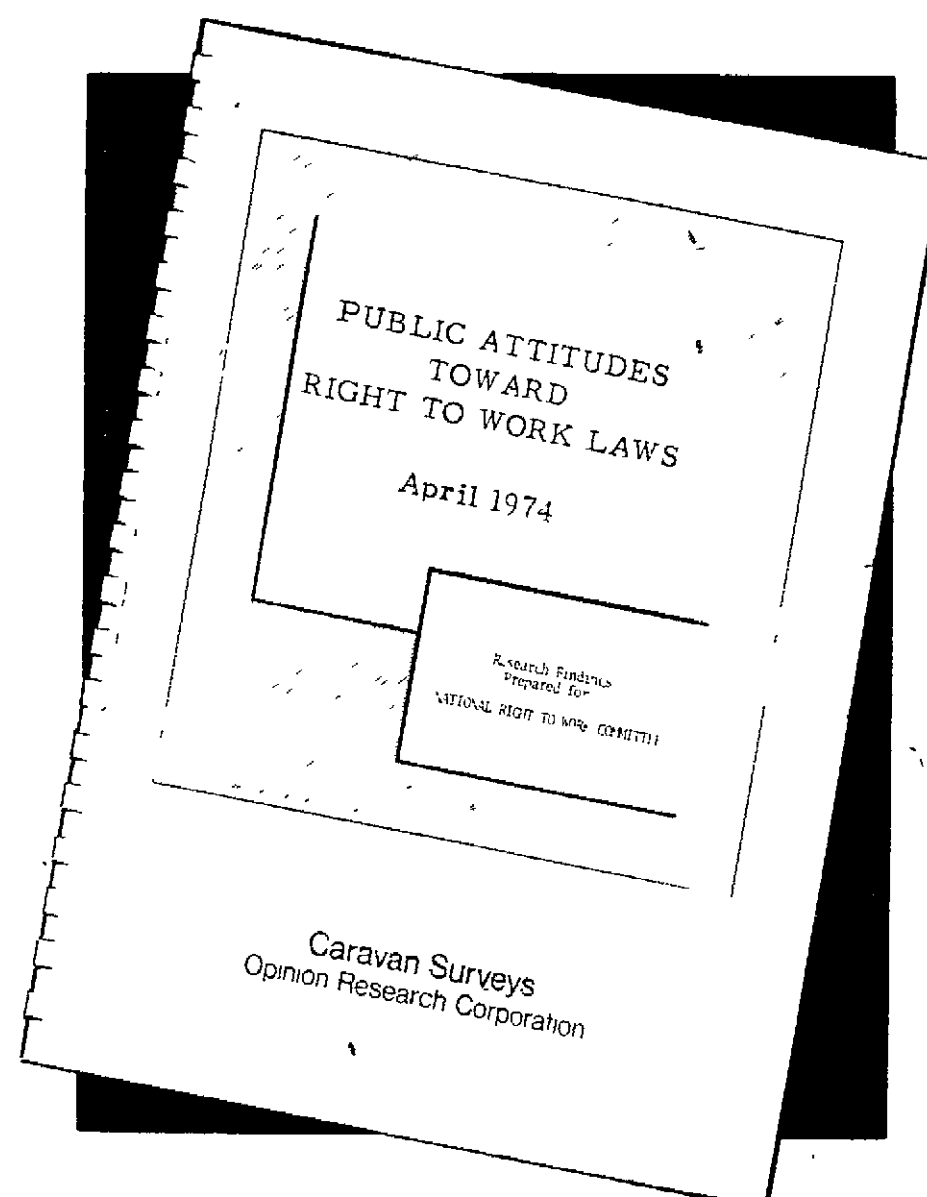

WHY THIS "PUBLIC BE DAMNED" ATTITUDE?

Given these figures, why hasn't Congress enacted laws to curb the abuses of Big Labor?

It's no mystery.

The answer is money.

Top union officials have at their command tens of thousands of salaried staff people across the country, and an income totaling several billion dollars a year—most of which is taken out of the pockets of wage-earners as a condition of their employment. This tax-free kitty and billion-dollar-a-year staff network is being used to promote the hand-picked political favorites of the union hierarchy—candidates who will carry out the union bosses' mandate at the expense of the public.

"CAMPAIGN REFORM" THAT ISN'T

For example, take a close look at the so-called "campaign reform" bill strongly backed by AFL-CIO officials, and recently passed by Congress. The legislation curbs the political activities of every special interest group in the country except the Big Labor unions, whose politicking consists largely of unreported "in kind" expenditures through staff assignments.

Instead of a "veto-proof" Congress, the American people need lawmakers who will respect the public's interests. The American people need a Congress which will find the time—despite pressure from Big Labor—to consider a National Right to Work law banning forced union membership. The American people need and want a Congress that will check rather than enlarge the excessive powers and privileges of top union officials.

You can help end the abuses of union monopoly power by joining the National Right to Work Committee, a nationwide coalition of more than 40,000 concerned citizens from all walks of life who believe union membership should be voluntary, not compulsory. THE OPINION RESEARCH CORPORATION CARAVAN SURVEY

The ORC report on Public Attitudes Toward Right to Work Laws presents the findings of a personal interview research survey conducted among 2173 men and women 18 years of age or over, living in private households in the continental United States.

Interviewing for this Caravan Survey was completed during the period March 22 through April 10, 1974 by members of the ORC national interviewing staff. All interviews were conducted in the homes of respondents.

The most advanced probability sampling techniques were used in the design and execution of the sample plan therefore the results may be projected to the total U.S. population of men and women 18 years of age and over. Only one interview was taken per household, regardless of the number of people 18 years of age or over in the household. Weights were introduced into the tabulations to ensure proper representation in the sample.

Catholic Schools Entering 'New Era'

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

"Catholic schools will never again be the same," the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick J. O'Neill declared Monday in Lincoln. And Catholic educators "had better begin to shape a new era of our own" by renewing schools' commitment to religion.

Msgr. O'Neill, educator director of the Fall River, Mass., Diocese, discussed the future of Catholic schools with about 400 priests, sisters and lay teachers attending the 39th annual Catholic School Teachers Institutes of the Lincoln Diocese.

He said the parochial schools' era of growth that began in the mid-1950s ended with the June 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision that declared un-

Education Aid Up Sharply

By The Associated Press

Total state support for public higher education in Nebraska has increased more than 353% in the past decade, and more than 50% since 1972-73, the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges reported.

Nebraska's gain during the past two years in exceeded only by Alaska's 64% and South Carolina's 72%, according to figures compiled by Professor M. M. Chambers for the

4 Charged With Armed Robbery

West Point (UPI) — Four persons arrested in the weekend robbery of a drive-in liquor store and the abduction of a store employee were charged Monday with kidnaping and armed robbery. Cuming County Atty. Mel Murphy said no date has been set for arraignment.

"We hope to get them up here for bond just as soon as possible," Murphy said of the suspects, who were being held in the Dodge County Jail at Fremont.

They are Allen Lindsay, 21;

Hruska Asks Source Of Nader's 'Mandate'

Alliance (UPI) — U.S. Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Nebr., Monday challenged consumer advocate Ralph Nader's "alleged right to determine for 213 million Americans what is best for them."

"Mr. Nader has gone out of his way in two recent appearances in Nebraska to complain about the fact that Sen. (Carl) Curtis (R-Nebr.) and I don't always vote to suit him," Hruska said.

Nader, in a speech to Nebraska Teachers last Thursday, urged his audience to deluge the two Nebraska Senators with mail concerning

Retired Banker B.O. Campbell Dies At Age 85

Burnham O. Campbell, retired vice president of First National Bank of Lincoln, died Monday in Lincoln. He was 85.

Campbell was a graduate of the University of Nebraska and a World War I veteran.

He was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity and American Legion Post 3 in Lincoln.

Campbell is survived by his wife, Hazel; a son, Burnham O. Jr., of Bangkok, Thailand; and three grandchildren.

Association's chief administrators of Catholic education department.

Inflation has "dealt a particularly severe blow" to Catholic schools, Msgr. O'Neill said. "Parents began to wonder whether it was worth the struggle and the risk to send their children to Catholic schools."

The monsignor noted that "although we may have fewer schools" in the future, they will be "purified and chastened by their adversity" and will "have a place in American life."

But "we're going to have to manage the changes" required, he said, and "exercise some more leadership and develop goals that give purpose to our schools."

The chairman of the Independent Commission of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, a regional accrediting agency, Msgr. O'Neill said Catholics must recognize their schools "can't be all things to all people."

Business Techniques

He urged educators to assess needs and set goals using the business world's techniques to operate most efficiently and adapt to change.

Msgr. O'Neill said schools must develop in their students a sense of responsibility and service to the community, and offer experiences to allow students to learn to use their leisure time well.

"Too often we talk to ourselves when establishing goals," he told the Catholic educators, urging them to allow student participation.

He suggested five principles to guide Catholic schools in the future:

First, he said, they must assign first priority to "teach sound Christian doctrine."

Parents want "values they hold dear" communicated to their children, Msgr. O'Neill said, and "Catholic schools that survive in the future will be religious schools."

Second, he urged that Catholic schools resist "cutting corners" when confronted with financial problems, to maintain the quality of education.

"We are far more free than public schools to try new things," he said.

Alliance Veterans To Celebrate Nov. 11

Alliance — Veterans groups here are waiting until Nov. 11 to hold a special service. No ceremonies were held here Monday on Veterans Day. A program will be held Nov. 11 at the plaque in the courthouse grounds, according to Joe Welte who is coordinating plans for the event.

Juveniles Charged In Firing On Train

Columbus (UPI) — Three juveniles were charged in Platte County court Monday with malicious destruction of property and assault in connection with the firing of 22-caliber rifles at a Union Pacific freight train Oct. 13. Sheriff Don Franzen said there was one person on the rail cars, but he was not hit. The shooting took place south of Humphrey, he said. The three defendants will have a hearing in juvenile court Nov. 19.

Crisis, Re-Entry Center Phased Out

Boys Town (AP) — Boys Town has phased out its seven-month-old Crisis and Re-Entry Center. The center was established to house and counsel youngsters who couldn't be controlled at the home or who got into trouble with the law. The Rev. Robert Hupp, Boys Town director, said "We felt the center didn't prove as satisfactory as we thought it would." He said staff members will counsel boys in their cottages.

Bicentennial Recognition Program Set

Nebraska City — Plans are underway here for the national recognition program for Nebraska City as a bicentennial city to be held Nov. 10. A bicentennial parade will be combined with the American Legion Veteran's Day parade Nov. 10.

schools have to become more self-reliant," he said, emphasizing his third point: "We have to do a better job of financial management."

'Role As Custodians'

That will require better understanding of "our role as custodians of hard-earned resources," in improving student recruiting and gaining increased financial support.

Fourth, parents must have a greater voice in school policy-making, he said, and noted that there "still appears to be a basic reluctance by school people to entrust" parents with such participation.

Finally, Catholic schools "must regain the pilgrim spirit," Msgr. O'Neill said.

"Catholic schools must be counter-culture schools" and "need not accept the values of the present culture," he said. By reinstituting a "feeling of high purpose," that means the schools "will face terrible financial problems."

But "Catholic schools should have been over-whelmed" by such problems long ago, he said. The fact they were not indicates their future lies in their "ability to restore purpose" in teaching students.

More than nine of ten Catholic educators from the Lincoln Diocese, which spans Nebraska South of the Platte River, attended the one-day institute.

although personal property is assessed at 35%.

LT&T paid the first half of the 1973 personal property taxes in Lancaster County but has refused to pay the portion of the second half which it contends is illegal.

On Aug. 2, the firm gave the county a check for $193,690 to cover the last half of the delinquent taxes for 1973 that

LT&T Requests Considered

A request by the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. for a temporary injunction to block Lancaster County from taking telephone property as payment on delinquent taxes was taken under advisement Monday.

Lancaster District Judge Dale Fahrbruch gave the county and the telephone company until Nov. 4 to file reply briefs in the matter.

On Oct. 1, the court issued a temporary restraining order blocking the county from taking telephone company property.

However, it refused to stop the county from acting under a law which provides that a delinquent taxpayer must pay the county all monies in the taxpayer's hands, or be subject to prosecution for a misdemeanor offense.

LT&T has filed suits in Lancaster and 14 other southeastern Nebraska counties seeking a reduction in the assessed value of phone company property.

LT&T says that real estate in the county is assessed at 23% of its actual value, according to figures compiled by the State Department of Revenue,

Retailer Honored

Kearney (UPI) — The Nebraska Licensed Beverage Association presented its 1974 Retailer of the Year award to Kenneth Dagerman of Omaha. Dagerman is a former owner of the Dagerman Bar in Omaha and at one time owned the Flame Bar, also in Omaha.

Adults Study 700 Hours Each Year

If you're an average person, Allen Tough says, you spend 700 hours each year in eight self-planned learning projects.

That means you spend one solid month — days and nights — teaching yourself something like how to raise your kids, wire the electricity in your basement, play the guitar or tune up your car.

"About three-quarters of all adult learning" is outside traditional schools, said Tough. He is from the Ontario (Canada) Institute of Studies in Education, and the University of Toronto.

Tough, an associate professor of adult education, is spending two days in Lincoln leading a conference for educators to consider new ways to offer non-traditional education.

"Patterns Similar"

"Learning patterns are very similar" among adults in the U.S., Canada, West Africa and New Zealand, he said. After interviews with people in each country, he said, "I feel an incredible admiration and respect" for the people and how "competently" they teach themselves.

"Adult education institutions should serve the individual learner, as well as groups," Tough said in an interview. "What people seem to need help with is choice-making."

He said schools and institutions shouldn't cut back in providing traditional learning opportunities, through books and formal classes, but should consider adding a counseling service, "sort of a casual drop-in kind of office" to refer the interest to experts for help.

A community-based "skill exchange," now operating in 20 American cities, offers another alternative to help self-teachers, Tough said. Now, he said, public libraries provide virtually all the individual help available.

"All the other institutions are running group workshops and classes," he said, and "the guy who's scrambling" to feed his family, for example, doesn't have time to participate in structured learning situations.

Tough, 38, said his interest in adult education began while he was a doctoral candidate at the University of Chicago. His latest research indicates that while most self-planned learning relates to one's job or a practical use, two of five projects stem from "curiosity or knowledge kinds of questions."

For example, one person might want to know, "What's going on in Vietnam?" while another seeks information on unidentified flying objects (UFOs), he said.

"Most people aren't aware that they go through" a self-planned learning process, Tough said. But he has discovered that people apply a deliberate effort to learn a specific skill or knowledge, and that a clear focus requires about seven hours study.

Further, he has determined that 68% of the time, the learner, on his own, plans his next learning effort from one session to the next. Of all projects in Tough's research, four out of five were self-taught,

Nebraskan Faces Murder Charge

Robert J. Andersen, 34, of South Sioux City, Neb., right, is escorted from District Court in Sioux City, Iowa, by Deputy Baliff Norbert Gloden. An open charge of murder was filed against Andersen in the shooting death early Sunday of John Bochichio, 41, of Sioux City. Police reports said the shooting followed an argument in a Sioux City nightclub at which both men were blackjack dealers.

Blair Telephone Co. Rate Cut Will Stand

The Nebraska Public Service Commission Monday refused to reconsider an order directing the Blair Telephone Co. to cut its rates by 60% to its Kennard subscribers.

The firm had asked the commission to reconsider its order on the grounds that it was arbitrary. The commission let the order stand with only Commissioner Duane Gay dissenting.

The commission determined that the firm's rates were not justified by the quality of service provided.

Herb Sherdon, the commission's communications chief, reported that Blair has filed an application seeking, in some instances, a 300% rate increase for its subscribers in Fort Calhoun, Kennard and Blair.

For instance, the application seeks an increase in one-party residential rates from $4 to $12.30 per month, in Fort Calhoun and Kennard.

In Blair a one-party residential phone would cost $12.30 per month instead of $5.50 per month.

The commission will act on the application after a hearing.

Cesar Chavez 'Feeling Better'

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — United Farm Workers leader Cesar Chavez has been released from the hospital where he was undergoing treatment for acute back pain.

Chavez was released Friday after his doctor reported that he was "feeling a great deal better," said Michael Maurer, information officer at O'Connor Hospital.

of paper," the degree, to be lured into learning, he said.

Tough, said classroom teachers should give students "much more choice of how to learn."

And he said teachers should "give people freedom in what to learn", within the boundaries of a course, "you're free to learn what you want."

Tough also proposed that "learners shouldn't have to rely on just one institution." Now, he said, a person wanting to be a doctor must spend five years at one school. Some learning should be offered at a university, he said, and some "with your local doctor."

"The educational system is now a monopoly," Tough said. "To get this piece of paper, you now have to go through this monolithic system."

Tough is the author of three books: "Learning Without A Teacher," "Why Adults Learn," and "The Adult's Learning Projects."

Dodge County Attorney To Charge Challenger

Fremont (AP) — Dodge County Atty. Gordon Gobel said he has prepared charges against Richard Kuhlman, the Republican candidate for the Dodge County attorney's office, and that the charges will be filed Tuesday.

Gobel said the charges involve Kuhlman's alleged violations of the residency requirements for candidates for county offices.

After an investigation, Gobel accused Kuhlman of filing for office and voting in Dodge County, when his legal residence was in Grand Island.

Kuhlman, a former Dodge County Attorney, was employed in from July, 1973 through June of this year at the State Law Enforcement Training Center in Grand Island, records show.

Kuhlman filed to run for the Dodge County position in March of this year, and listed his address as a cabin about three miles west of Fremont.

Gobel said he feels that Kuhlman's legal residence was in Grand Island until June of this year.

Gobel said he will also file charges against Kuhlman's wife, Kathryn, for allegedly voting in Dodge County, while being registered in Hall County, and that other charges relating to Kuhlman's candidacy might also be filed.

Gobel, also a Republican, used a petition drive to defeat Kuhlman in 1970. However, the tables were turned last May when Kuhlman defeated Gobel in the Republican primary.

Gobel said political considerations have nothing to do with the charges against Kuhlman, and that he does not want to be accused of covering up.

Kuhlman responded to news of the pending charges by saying he felt the action is politically motivated.

Kuhlman said he has been a voting resident of Dodge County since 1951, and that there is no misconduct in his filing for office or anything else. Kuhlman added that he hopes to have the matter disposed of before next Tuesday's elections, and that he might have a further comment after the charges are officially filed, and he sees what they consist of.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
